Salesforce Certified Service cloud consultant Sample Questions (Q142-Q147):

NEW QUESTION # 142

Universal Containers is launching a full line of new products, and Service Cloud should support the following requirements:

* Service reps need to collaborate with other teams.
* The product development team needs to be alerted on high-priority cases for specific products.
Which solution meets these requirements?

- A. Use Account Teams to collaborate on cases and use Salesforce Flow for notifications.
- B. Use Case Teams to collaborate on cases and use Salesforce Flow for notifications.
- C. Use Case Teams to collaborate on cases and use Escalation Rules for notifications.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The Service Cloud Consultant Study Guide - Service Cloud Solution Design domain recommends using Case Teams to facilitate collaboration on cases among different departments. Case Teams allow multiple users or roles to work together on a single case, improving visibility and coordination between service and product development teams.

To meet the requirement of alerting the product development team on high-priority cases, the best practice is to use Salesforce Flow (or Process Automation tools) to automatically send notifications, create tasks, or post updates to collaboration tools such as Slack or Chatter when criteria are met (for example,

"Priority = High" and "Product = X").

Escalation Rules are designed for time-based escalation to higher support tiers, not for notifying specific departments. Account Teams facilitate collaboration at the account level, not on specific cases, making them unsuitable for case-specific alerts.

Referenced Salesforce Materials:

* Service Cloud Consultant Exam Guide - Service Cloud Solution Design Domain (collaboration and automation design considerations).
* Salesforce Help: "Set Up Case Teams" (enables collaboration among different users on cases).
* Salesforce Help: "Build Automated Notifications with Flow" (describes how to notify users when case conditions are met).

- A. Customers at the start of a given period, customers at the end of that period, and new customers acquired during that period
- B. Customers at the start of a given period, customers at the end of that period, and customers lost during that period
- C. Customers at the start of a given period, customers at the end of that period, and old customers who returned during that period

Answer: A

Explanation:

In the Industry Knowledge domain, Salesforce defines customer retention rate as the percentage of customers retained over a given period, excluding newly acquired customers. The formula requires:

Thus, the correct variables are customers at the start, customers at the end, and new customers acquired during the period.

Option B and C include incorrect parameters—"old customers who returned" and "customers lost"—which are not used directly in retention rate formulas.

Referenced Salesforce Materials:

* Service Cloud Consultant Exam Guide - Industry Knowledge Domain (metrics such as retention, churn, and customer satisfaction).

* Salesforce Trailhead: "Measure Customer Retention and Churn" (defines retention rate calculation).
