NEW QUESTION # 57
An organization needs to store daily transactional data such as customer records and purchase history. The data follows a consistent schema and is cross-referenced. Which type of service should the organization use?

- A. Non-relational database
- B. Data warehouse
- C. Data lake
- D. Relational database

Answer: D

Explanation:
Relational databases are ideal for storing transactional data that follows a consistent schema and requires cross-referencing (e.g., customer records and purchase history). They provide ACID (Atomicity, Consistency, Isolation, Durability) compliance, which is essential for reliable transaction processing.
Option C: Relational database is correct because it is specifically designed for structured data with a consistent schema and supports complex queries and cross-referencing of data, which is essential for transactional systems.

NEW QUESTION # 58
A cloud-native organization is not meeting their service level objective (SLO) but has not exhausted their error budget.
What should the organization prioritize?

- A. Stability to avoid prolonged user downtime
- B. Hardware reliability to improve availability
- C. Innovation to improve user experience
- D. Speed to release new features

Answer: A

Explanation:
Both Devs and SRE team must ensure that the error budget does not become exhausted. To avoid it, releases have to stop for the time being until the error budget resets. The team would have to reprioritize to focus on reliability to get it back to an acceptable state.

NEW QUESTION # 59
An organization wants to build a data pipeline to transform its data so it can be reconciled in a data warehouse. The solution must be scalable and require little or no management. Which Google product or service should the organization choose?

- A. Dataflow
- B. Pub/Sub
- C. Cloud Storage
- D. Cloud Bigtable

Answer: A

Explanation:
Google Cloud Dataflow is a fully managed service for creating data pipelines that can handle both batch and stream processing. It is scalable and requires minimal management, making it ideal for transforming data before reconciling it in a data warehouse. Dataflow integrates seamlessly with other Google Cloud services, such as BigQuery, to create end-to-end data processing solutions.
Option B: Dataflow is correct because it provides a scalable and managed solution for building data pipelines.

NEW QUESTION # 60

You are a program manager in a company and handling a project and you need to create a virtual machine on google cloud console that will be very simple to set up, by flipping a bit via command, API, or with developer console that gives you 30 seconds to shut down when you're preempted, allow you to save your work that also helps in the company budget upto 70-80% of less charges than the regular VMs.

- A. Google Cloud VM Instances
- B. Preemptible Virtual Machines.
- C. None of the above.
- D. Bare Metal Solutions

Answer: B

Explanation:
Preemptible VMs have all these features
Simple configuration
Create a preemptible instance simply by flipping a bit via command, API, or developer console.
Easy extensibility
Attach GPUs and local SSDs to preemptible instances for additional performance and savings.
Graceful shutdown
Compute Engine gives you 30 seconds to shut down when you're preempted, letting you save your work in progress for later.
Large scale computing
Spin up as many instances as you need and turn them off when you're done. You only pay for what you use.
Quickly reclaim capacity
Managed instance groups automatically recreate your instances when they're preempted (if capacity is available).
Fixed pricing
Preemptible VMs have fixed pricing up to 80% off regular instances. They show up on your bill separately so you'll see just how much you're saving.
