CompTIA A+ Certification Exam: Core 1 Sample Questions (Q88-Q93):

NEW QUESTION # 88

A laptop PC user is reporting issues with the hard drive. A filesystem check shows that all files are accessible and the filesystem is clean. After the check, the PC still issues a hard drive error message. Which of the following is the MOST likely cause of the error?

- A. DIMM failure

- B. RAID failure
- C. S.M.A.R.T failure
- D. IOPS failure

Answer: C

Explanation:

If the filesystem check shows that all files are accessible and the filesystem is clean, but a hard drive error message persists, it's possible that the hard drive is experiencing S.M.A.R.T. (Self-Monitoring, Analysis, and Reporting Technology) failure. This is a warning system built into hard drives to alert users of potential issues before they become critical. NEW QUESTION # 89

Users working with large files back up the files to external hard drives. One user's files take longer to back up than other users' files. The user has tried backing up the files to other users' drives with the same results. Which of the following steps should the technician take first to correct this issue?

- A. Instruct the user to compress the files.
- B. Defragment the user's external hard drive.
- C. Replace the hard drive's USB cable.
- D. Update the storage drivers on the user's system.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 90

An administrator is replacing 15,000rpm hard drives in a server. Which of the following is the interface type the drives most likely use?

- A. SAS
- B. eSATA
- C. SATA
- D. IDE

Answer: A

Explanation:

SAS (Serial Attached SCSI) is an interface type that supports high-speed data transfer and high-performance hard drives, such as 15,000rpm drives. SAS drives are commonly used in servers that require fast access and reliability. IDE (Integrated Drive Electronics), eSATA (external SATA), and SATA (Serial ATA) are not suitable for 15,000rpm drives, as they have lower speed and performance.

NEW QUESTION # 91

A user has noticed high CPU temperatures when gaming. The user would like to lower the CPU temperature, and cost is not an issue. Which of the following should the user do to BEST cool the CPU while keeping noise to a minimum?

- A. Upgrade the thermal paste.
- B. Use a copper heat sink.
- C. Upgrade the CPU fan.
- D. Install liquid cooling.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Liquid cooling is a method of cooling the CPU by circulating a liquid through a closed loop that absorbs heat from the CPU and transfers it to a radiator. Liquid cooling is more effective and quieter than air cooling, which uses a fan and a heat sink. However, liquid cooling is also more expensive and complex to install.

Upgrading the thermal paste, using a copper heat sink, or upgrading the CPU fan are ways to improve air cooling, but they will not lower the CPU temperature as much as liquid cooling. References: <https://www.>

NEW QUESTION # 92

A user's laptop is experiencing severe slowdowns when operating process-intensive tasks. Which of the following memory upgrades is compatible with a laptop?

- A. DIMM
- B. SODIMM
- C. ECC RAM
- D. Virtual RAM

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

SODIMM stands for Small Outline Dual In-line Memory Module and is a type of memory module that is compatible with laptops and other small devices. SODIMMs are smaller and thinner than DIMMs (Dual In-line Memory Modules), which are typically used for desktop PCs and servers. Upgrading or adding SODIMMs can increase the amount of RAM available for a laptop, which can improve its performance and speed when running process-intensive tasks. Reference:
