SAP Certified Associate - Organizational Change Management Sample Questions (Q37-Q42):

NEW QUESTION # 37

What is the key benefit of capturing lessons learned towards the end of a cloud implementation?

- A. It supports the project leadership team to identify the project team members who deserve special appreciation for their good work.

- B. It helps to identify ad-hoc activities to foster high and sustainable user adoption after the go-live.
- C. It facilitates the hand-over process of important project activities to the IT organization of the company.
- D. It contributes to the organization's capabilities to successfully handle future business transformations.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Capturing lessons learned in SAP projects (typically in the Run phase) enhances future success. Option D is correct because it builds organizational knowledge for subsequent transformations. Option A is incorrect- hand-over is a separate process, not the key benefit. Option B is incorrect; adoption activities are planned earlier, not ad-hoc from lessons learned. Option C is incorrect; recognition is a byproduct, not the primary goal.

Extract from SAP OCM Concepts: Lessons learned in SAP Activate improve future change capabilities (SAP OCM Framework).

NEW QUESTION # 38

What should a change manager keep in mind when designing the process for capturing lessons learned? Note: There are 3 correct answers to this question.

- A. Clear rules of engagement, such as "avoid finger-pointing," facilitate the process
- B. A predefined structure and scope of topics help to cover all relevant aspects
- C. The results of the lessons learned activity should be treated confidentially
- D. A workshop setting is the best way to capture lessons learned
- E. The focus on topics that didn't go well saves time during the workshop

Answer: A,B,C

NEW QUESTION # 39

Which dimensions are suitable for analyzing individual stakeholders of a cloud implementation in a 2x2 matrix? Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. Level of influence on the project success, distinguishing between low and high
- B. Extent of expected change impacts, distinguishing between few and many
- C. Attitude towards the project, distinguishing between negative and positive
- D. Degree of resistance, distinguishing between low and high

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

A 2x2 matrix in SAP OCM stakeholder analysis plots individuals for strategic engagement. Option B is correct-attitude (negative vs. positive) gauges support level-e.g., a positive VP vs. a negative clerk- guiding communication focus. Option C is correct as influence (low vs. high) measures impact potential-e.

g., a high-influence director can sway outcomes more than a low-influence user-prioritizing effort. Together, they create a matrix (e.g., high-influence/positive = "champions") for tailored strategies.

Option A is incorrect- "degree of resistance" overlaps with attitude; it's a symptom, not a distinct axis.

Option D is incorrect; change impact extent is group-level (e.g., unit-wide), not individual-specific in a 2x2.

SAP OCM uses attitude/influence for precision.

"Analyze stakeholders in a 2x2 matrix using attitude (positive/negative) and influence (low/high) to prioritize engagement effectively" (SAP Activate, Stakeholder Analysis Tools).

NEW QUESTION # 40

What is the added value of a high-level change impact analysis? Note: There are 3 correct answers to this question.

- A. It delivers input for communication activities, making the implications of the project more tangible.
- B. It provides an initial systematic overview of the amount and the nature of the upcoming changes.
- C. It reveals key project risks that can be integrated into the project's risk management at an early stage.
- D. It enables the project manager to identify opponents in highly impacted units and adjust the stakeholder analysis accordingly.
- E. It allows the change manager to derive appropriate activities, focusing the resources on key action areas.

Answer: A,C,E

NEW QUESTION # 41

What are typical topics for a change assessment at the beginning of an SAP cloud implementation? Note: There are 3 correct answers to this question.

- A. The company's change management capabilities
- B. The change culture of the company
- C. The scope for change management
- D. The cloud project's vision and expected benefits
- E. The assessment of the key stakeholders' attitude towards the project

Answer: A,B,E

Explanation:

A change assessment at the start of an SAP cloud project (typically in the Prepare phase) evaluates the organization's readiness for change. Option A is correct because understanding the company's change culture (e.g., openness to innovation) sets the tone for the approach. Option D is correct as it assesses the organization's existing change management capabilities (e.g., skills, tools), identifying gaps to address.

Option E is correct because gauging stakeholders' attitudes (e.g., support or resistance) is critical for planning engagement strategies.

Option B is incorrect-defining the scope of change management is an outcome of the assessment, not a topic itself. Option C is also incorrect; the project vision and benefits are defined by project leadership, not assessed as part of the change assessment.

Extract from SAP OCM Concepts: The change assessment in SAP Activate's Prepare phase focuses on readiness factors like culture, capabilities, and stakeholder perspectives (SAP OCM Framework).
