UiPath Automation Business Analyst Associate Exam (2023.10) Sample Questions (Q14-Q19):

NEW QUESTION # 14

Which document helps validate if an automation idea is suitable for automation?

- A. Application Tracker
- B. Project Plan
- C. Process Assessment Tool

- D. Solution Design Document

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Process Assessment Tool is used to validate whether an automation idea is suitable for automation. It helps determine both the business value and the technical feasibility of a given process by evaluating parameters such as complexity, frequency, volume, standardization, and exception rate.

This tool is particularly useful during the Discovery phase or Business Case and Technical Validation stage.

It enables the Automation Business Analyst and stakeholders to prioritize the right automation candidates and avoid wasting resources on processes that offer little value or are difficult to automate.

The result is a data-driven decision-making process that ensures only high-impact, feasible processes move forward into implementation.

NEW QUESTION # 15

Which one of the following statements is TRUE about the Process Definition Document (PDD)?

- A. It is a document used for project closure after deployment
- B. It is prepared solely by the Project Manager
- C. It is filled with only the As-Is process details
- D. It contains only the To-Be process design and future-state flows

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Process Definition Document (PDD) is primarily filled with the As-Is process details, making Option C the correct statement. The PDD captures how the process works today - including steps, inputs/outputs, systems used, exceptions, and roles involved.

It is typically created through collaboration between the Business Analyst and Solution Architect, based on workshops and shadowing sessions with the Client Team. This document forms the foundation for all subsequent steps in the implementation lifecycle, especially the Solution Design stage, where the To-Be process is planned.

The PDD ensures all stakeholders have a shared understanding of the current process before automation design begins. It also helps identify scope boundaries and validate that automation requirements are complete and accurate.

NEW QUESTION # 16

Which of the following best describes the Automation Business Analyst's role during the Process Analysis stage?

- A. Analyzes the As-Is process and defines the To-Be process
- B. Approves solution architecture
- C. Handles infrastructure provisioning
- D. Defines coding best practices

Answer: A

Explanation:

During the Process Analysis stage, the Automation Business Analyst is responsible for analyzing the current (As-Is) process and defining the future (To-Be) process to be automated. This includes mapping out each step, understanding business rules, identifying inefficiencies, and collaborating with stakeholders to envision how automation will change the process.

The Business Analyst also works closely with the Solution Architect to prepare the Process Definition Document (PDD) and ensures that the process is well-documented for the developers to understand and automate.

This role is essential for bridging the gap between business users and technical implementers, ensuring that the solution reflects the true needs of the business while being technically feasible.

NEW QUESTION # 17

What does the Applications errors & exceptions handling sub-section of the PDD include?

- A. A list of all errors, warnings and notifications that occurred before the automation implementation
- B. A list of all errors, warnings and notifications that occurred during process discovery
- C. A list of all errors, warnings and notifications with actions to be taken for each by the robot

- D. A list of all errors, warnings and notifications that occurred during testing

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Applications Errors & Exceptions Handling sub-section of the Process Definition Document (PDD) includes a list of all known errors, warnings, and notifications that may occur during the execution of the process, along with the expected actions the robot should take in response.

This section is essential for preparing the automation to handle real-world scenarios gracefully. For example, if a login fails, a system is down, or a specific field is empty, the robot must know whether to:

- * Retry the action
- * Log the error and continue
- * Escalate the issue
- * Halt execution and notify the user

These instructions are defined during the Process Analysis stage, often based on historical error logs and SME input. Including these error-handling rules in the PDD ensures that developers build automation that is resilient, robust, and capable of handling unexpected conditions during runtime.

Without this section, robots may fail unpredictably or behave inconsistently, leading to errors in production.

This documentation helps ensure automation is not only functional but also stable and reliable in the long term.

NEW QUESTION # 18

Which stage of the Automation Implementation Methodology involves assessing automation candidates for business value and technical feasibility?

- A. Kickoff
- B. Business Case and Technical Validation
- C. Process Analysis
- D. Deployment and Hypercare

Answer: B

Explanation:

The Business Case and Technical Validation stage is crucial for evaluating whether an automation initiative is feasible and valuable. In this stage, selected automation candidates undergo rigorous assessment to determine if they are suitable for automation in terms of business impact and technical execution.

Key stakeholders involved include the business analyst, solution architect, and project manager. The business analyst evaluates the ROI and cost-benefit of automating the process. Simultaneously, the solution architect assesses the technical complexity, dependencies, and access requirements for implementation.

This dual validation ensures the process is worth automating and can be implemented within the current technical environment.

Processes that are highly complex, have low ROI, or involve systems that do not integrate well may be deprioritized or dropped.

Without this stage, organizations risk spending time and resources on automations that may not deliver sufficient value or may face technical hurdles, which is why it is a foundational step in the implementation methodology.
