To meet HIPAA compliance, the first step in the data pipeline is to identify all medical scans that contain embedded PII. The solution must be automated and capable of scanning data in-place on the on-premises ASA system.

Which two technologies should be used to accomplish this identification and tagging task?

(Choose 2.)

- A. A custom "PII" category within BlueXP classification to identify specific medical record number formats.
- B. NetApp SnapLock to make the source data immutable before scanning.
- C. A custom Python script that uses regular expressions to search file contents.
- D. NetApp BlueXP classification, configured to scan the on-premises ASA working environment.
- E. A manual review process where technicians visually inspect each scan for PII.

Answer: A,D

NEW QUESTION # 20

A distributed training job running on the AIPod fails to start. The MLOps engineer inspects the events for one of the pending training pods and sees the following message:

Events:

Type Reason Age From Message

- - - -

Warning FailedScheduling 5m12s default-scheduler 0/4 nodes are available: 4 node(s) had no available volume zone. The PersistentVolumeClaim (PVC) for this pod specifies a StorageClass that uses the 'ontap-nas' Trident provisioner. The Trident logs show no errors.

What is the most likely cause of this scheduling failure?

- A. The NetApp ASA storage system is offline.
- B. The training pod's container image does not exist in the registry.
- C. The 'requiredTopology' in the StorageClass is misconfigured, preventing Trident from finding a valid ONTAP backend in the same zone as the available compute nodes.
- D. The Kubernetes nodes do not have the necessary NFS client utilities installed.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 21

The company's finance department mandates a cost-control strategy for the petabyte-scale StorageGRID data lake. The analysis shows that 80% of the simulation data is not accessed after 90 days but must be retained for five years for regulatory compliance. Which StorageGRID feature should the architect use to automatically reduce the long-term storage costs for this inactive data?

- A. Use NetApp SnapMirror to replicate the cold data to a different, lower-cost StorageGRID cluster.
- B. Configure an Information Lifecycle Management (ILM) policy that automatically moves objects older than 90 days to a lower-cost cloud archive tier, such as Amazon S3 Glacier Deep Archive.
- C. Implement a FabricPool policy to tier the data to a NetApp ASA system.
- D. Enable deduplication and compression on all StorageGRID storage nodes.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 22

An organization wants to provide its data science team with a secure, on-demand method for using a powerful generative AI model with their private, sensitive corporate data. The solution must ensure that the private data is never exposed to the public internet or the public LLM API endpoint.

The architect is designing a solution using BlueXP.

Which two components are essential for building this secure solution? (Choose 2.)

- A. A policy in BlueXP classification to copy all sensitive data to a public cloud bucket for easier access.
- B. The BlueXP GenAI Toolkit, which acts as a proxy to intercept user prompts and enrich them with data from a local vector database.
- C. A direct VPN connection from each data scientist's laptop to the public LLM provider.
- D. A private vector database hosted on an on-premises NetApp ONTAP system to store embeddings of the sensitive corporate data.
- E. A BlueXP Connector deployed in a public subnet with a public IP address to allow access to the LLM.

Answer: B,D

NEW QUESTION # 23

An online retail company's recommendation engine, which provides real-time product suggestions to users, is experiencing unacceptable latency. The inference application is running on a correctly-sized edge server, but user requests are taking over 500ms to process. An architect reviews the data access pattern and infrastructure diagram.

Application_Location: Edge Server (In-store)

Data_Source_Location: Core Data Center (On-premises ONTAP)

Data_Required_for_Inference: User profile data, product catalog vectors Network_Path: Edge -> WAN -> Core Data Center

Observed_Latency: 550ms What is the most likely cause of the high inference latency?

- A. Every inference request requires a high-latency round trip over the WAN to fetch data from the core data center.
- B. The on-premises ONTAP system is not configured for high-throughput.
- C. The edge server has insufficient CPU resources to run the model.
- D. The model is too large to fit into the edge server's memory.

Answer: A
