Snowflake Certified SnowPro Associate - Platform Certification Sample Questions (Q146-Q151):

NEW QUESTION # 146

How do you enable a Directory Table for an external stage in Snowflake?

- A. By default, Directory Tables are enabled
- B. By setting the `ENABLE_DIRECTORY_TABLE` property to `TRUE` on the external stage using `ALTER STAGE ... SET ENABLE_DIRECTORY_TABLE = TRUE`
- C. Using the command `CREATE DIRECTORY TABLE ...`
- D. By creating a view on the external stage

Answer: B

Explanation:

Directory tables allow Snowflake to expose metadata about files stored in an external stage, enabling users to query file listings using SQL. To enable a directory table, the correct approach is to update an existing external stage using:

ALTER STAGE my_stage SET DIRECTORY = (ENABLE = TRUE);

This enables automatic synchronization of file metadata from cloud providers such as AWS S3, Azure Blob, or Google Cloud Storage.

Incorrect options:

- * Directory tables are not enabled by default.
- * There is no `CREATE DIRECTORY TABLE` command in Snowflake.
- * Creating a view cannot enable directory table functionality.

Once enabled, users can query:

SELECT * FROM DIRECTORY(@my_stage);

to retrieve file names, sizes, MD5 hashes, and timestamps.

NEW QUESTION # 147

A data provider wants to share a secure view called 'SALES SUMMARY' from the 'RETAIL DATA' database with a consumer. The provider needs to ensure that the consumer can only query the view and cannot see the underlying tables. Which of the following steps are required to accomplish this? I. Create a secure view 'SALES SUMMARY'. II. Create a share. III. Grant 'SELECT' privilege on the 'SALES SUMMARY' view to the share. IV. Grant 'USAGE' privilege on the 'RETAIL DATA' database to the share. V. Grant 'USAGE' privilege on the schema containing 'SALES SUMMARY' to the share.

- A. I, II, III, IV, and V
- B. I, II, III, and IV only
- C. I, II, and III only
- D. II, III, and V only
- E. II and III only

Answer: A

Explanation:

To share a secure view, you need to create the view, create a share, grant SELECT on the view to the share, grant USAGE on the database to the share, and grant USAGE on the schema containing the view to the share. All steps I, II, III, IV and V are required.

NEW QUESTION # 148

You are inserting data into a table named 'EVENTS' which contains a column 'EVENT DATA' of type 'VARIANT'. The data being inserted comes from an external stage and is in JSON format.

However, you are encountering errors because some of the JSON documents contain deeply nested arrays and objects, leading to excessive memory consumption during the INSERT operation. Which of the following actions can you take to mitigate this issue and successfully load the data using the 'INSERT' command with data from a stage? Choose TWO.

- A. Increase the size of the virtual warehouse to provide more memory for the INSERT operation.
- B. Use = TRUE file format option for the stage.
- C. Pre-process the JSON data outside of Snowflake to flatten or simplify the nested structures before loading it into the stage.
- D. Break down the INSERT operation into smaller batches, processing subsets of the data at a time.
- E. Use the 'VALIDATE' function to identify problematic JSON documents and exclude them from the INSERT operation.

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

Options B and E are the most effective solutions. Option B, pre-processing the data to flatten it reduces the complexity of individual JSON documents, lowering memory consumption during the insert. Option E, batching the INSERT operations limits the amount of memory used in each individual operation, preventing the warehouse from being overwhelmed. Option A, increasing the warehouse size can help, but it's often a more expensive solution than optimizing the data loading process itself. Option C only strips the outer array. Option D does not resolve the issue during load.

NEW QUESTION # 149

Which command will create a named internal stage?

- A. CREATE @STAGE
- B. CREATE STAGE
- C. CREATE NAMED STAGE
- D. CREATE INTERNAL STAGE

Answer: B

Explanation:

CREATE STAGE is the correct Snowflake DDL command for creating a named internal stage. Stages hold files for loading/unloading. The command defaults to internal storage unless external parameters are provided.

Other options are not valid Snowflake syntax.

NEW QUESTION # 150

A data analyst wants to clone the 'SALES DB' database to create a development environment called 'DEV SALES DB'. The analyst needs to ensure that all schemas within 'SALES DB', including custom schemas with data, are replicated in the clone, and that the clone operates as a completely independent database. Which of the following sequence of commands is the most efficient and reliable way to achieve this?

- A. CREATE DATABASE DEV SALES DB CLONE SALES DB;
- B. CREATE DATABASE DEV SALES DB CLONE SALES DB COPY GRANTS;
- C. BACKUP DATABASE SALES DB TO S3; RESTORE DATABASE DEV SALES DB FROM S3;
- D. CREATE DATABASE CREATE SCHEMA CREATE SCHEMA Repeat for all schemas in SALES_DB; Manually copy data into each table.
- E. CREATE OR REPLACE DATABASE DEV SALES DBAS COPY OF SALES DB;

Answer: A

Explanation:

'CREATE DATABASE CLONE SALES_DB;' is the correct and most efficient way to clone a database in Snowflake. It creates a point-in-time snapshot clone of the entire database, including all schemas, tables, and other objects. Option A is manual and highly inefficient. Option C involves backups and restores, which are not the intended approach for cloning within Snowflake.

Option D's syntax is incorrect as 'AS COPY OF' is not a valid clause, and 'COPY GRANTS' with clone may not be relevant here.
