Lpi LPIC-1 Exam 101, Part 1 of 2, version 5.0 Sample Questions (Q298-Q303):

NEW QUESTION # 298

How many fields are in a syntactically correct line of /etc/fstab?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2

- D. 3
- E. 4

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 299

Which command is used to query information about the available packages on a Debian system?

- A. apt-search
- B. apt-get
- C. dpkg-search
- D. apt-cache
- E. dpkg

Answer: D

Explanation:

The command apt-cache is used to query information about the available packages on a Debian system. This command can perform various operations on the package cache, such as searching for packages that match a given pattern, showing detailed information about a specific package, displaying the dependencies of a package, and more. The apt-cache command does not require root privileges and does not modify the system state¹².

The other commands are either invalid or do not perform the same function as the correct answer. For example:

* apt-get is used to install, update, upgrade, remove, or purge packages on a Debian system. It requires root privileges and modifies the system state¹³.

* apt-search is not a valid command. The correct syntax to search for packages using the apt command is apt search¹ .

* dpkg is a low-level tool that can install, remove, configure, or query information about Debian packages. It operates on individual packages and does not handle dependencies. It requires root privileges to install or remove packages¹ .

* dpkg-search is not a valid command. The correct syntax to search for packages using the dpkg command is dpkg -l or dpkg-query -l¹ .
