CrowdStrike Certified Cloud Specialist - 2025 Version Sample Questions (Q155-Q160):

NEW QUESTION # 155

What is the most appropriate first step when creating a Falcon Fusion workflow to notify individuals about automated remediation actions?

- A. Create a custom dashboard to visualize all remediation events.
- B. Set up a trigger event for the workflow, such as a detection in the Falcon platform.

- C. Manually send an email notification to the security team.
- D. Add a conditional step to verify if the action is approved by an administrator.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Option A: The first step in creating a Falcon Fusion workflow is to define the trigger event that initiates the workflow. This could be a specific detection type or another event in the Falcon platform. Without a trigger, the workflow has no starting point. This step ensures that the workflow activates only in response to the desired conditions.

Option B: While notifying the security team is important, manually sending emails defeats the purpose of automating workflows with Falcon Fusion. Automation is designed to streamline the response process and reduce human intervention.

Option C: Adding conditional steps for approval might be part of the workflow, but it is not the first step. Conditional logic is applied after the workflow is triggered. Focusing on triggers first is essential.

Option D: While dashboards are useful for monitoring, they are not part of creating workflows.

Dashboards visualize outcomes, whereas workflows focus on defining triggers and actions.

NEW QUESTION # 156

What additional flag should be included in the `falcon-image-scan` command to produce detailed output for a manual image scan?

- A. `--output detailed`
- B. `--verbose`
- C. `--log-level debug`
- D. `--details`

Answer: B

Explanation:

Option A: Setting the log level to debug increases log verbosity but does not directly enhance the scan output provided to the user. This flag affects internal logs rather than user-facing scan details.

Option B: This flag is not part of the `falcon-image-scan` command syntax. Although intuitive, it does not exist in the tool's command options.

Option C: While descriptive, this is not a valid flag for the `falcon-image-scan` command. The command-line tool does not use this syntax to enable detailed output.

Option D: The `--verbose` flag is commonly used in CrowdStrike's command-line tools to produce detailed output. When scanning images manually, this flag provides more in-depth information about the scan progress, detected vulnerabilities, and metadata, which is especially useful for debugging or detailed reporting.

NEW QUESTION # 157

After deploying the CrowdStrike Kubernetes Sensor in a Kubernetes cluster, some containers are not being monitored, even though the deployment logs indicate a successful installation.

What is the most likely cause of this issue?

- A. The Kubernetes cluster is running on an unsupported cloud provider.
- B. The sensor `DaemonSet` is not running on all cluster nodes.
- C. The cluster's kubelet is misconfigured, preventing the sensor from attaching to containers.
- D. The Kubernetes cluster uses a container runtime not supported by CrowdStrike.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Option A: While a mismatched container runtime can cause monitoring issues, CrowdStrike supports a wide range of container runtimes. If an unsupported runtime were the issue, it would be flagged during deployment, not afterward.

Option B: While kubelet misconfiguration could cause container management issues, this would typically prevent container creation or result in broader cluster-wide errors, not selective monitoring failures.

Option C: CrowdStrike supports most major cloud providers. Unsupported cloud providers would likely cause deployment issues, not selective monitoring problems.

Option D: This is the correct answer because the `DaemonSet` ensures that the CrowdStrike sensor runs on all nodes in the cluster. If the `DaemonSet` is not deployed properly across all nodes, workloads on the unaffected nodes will not be monitored, even though the overall installation appears successful.

NEW QUESTION # 158

Your organization wants to use Falcon Fusion to notify individuals about policy violations related to unapproved container images in your cloud environment.

Which action type should you configure to send notifications to the cloud operations team?

- A. Send Email
- B. Send to a Webhook
- C. Execute a Remediation Script
- D. Log to Console

Answer: A

Explanation:

Option A: Logging to the console captures the event for internal monitoring but does not serve as an external notification mechanism for individuals or teams.

Option B: While remediation scripts are useful for automating fixes or responses to policy violations, they do not provide direct notification to individuals. This option is more suitable for technical remediation tasks than communication.

Option C: Sending data to a webhook can integrate Falcon Fusion with third-party systems for notification, but it requires additional setup and might not notify individuals directly unless configured to forward information to a communication platform like Slack or Teams.

Option D: "Send Email" is the correct action type to notify individuals about policy violations directly. This option allows you to send detailed notifications to specific individuals or groups, ensuring they are promptly informed about the violations. Notifications can include context like policy details, detection metadata, and recommended actions.

NEW QUESTION # 159

Why might an image assessment fail to complete?

- A. Sensor group misassignment
- B. Incorrect registry credentials or access scope
- C. Fusion SOAR misconfiguration
- D. Runtime policy conflicts

Answer: B
