PMI Agile Certified Practitioner Sample Questions (Q169-Q174):

NEW QUESTION # 169

When developing user stories, user expectations are best captured in what form?

- A. Done criteria
- B. Go and no-go limits
- C. Entrance criteria
- D. Acceptance tests

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 170

An agile practitioner is working on a project to migrate data from computer systems to another location. To accomplish this task, they need to run four activities sequentially that different teams are performing. The teams are migrating two systems per day, but the agile practitioner thinks that three systems should be done per day.

What can be done to improve process efficiency?

- A. Use burndown charts to find gaps, delays, and constraints in the current process and develop a plan to reduce or remove them.
- B. Use value stream mapping to find gaps, delays, and constraints in the current process and develop a plan to reduce or remove them.
- C. Use Pareto analysis to find gaps, delays, and constraints in the current process and develop a plan to reduce or remove them.
- D. Use root cause analysis to find gaps, delays, and constraints in the current process and develop a plan to reduce or remove them.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Value stream mapping is a powerful tool in Agile and Lean methodologies used to visualize and analyze the flow of materials and information across the entire process. By mapping the current state, the team can identify bottlenecks, delays, and inefficiencies, especially when multiple teams are involved in sequential activities. Once these gaps and constraints are identified, the team can work on improving the process, such as by finding ways to increase the number of systems migrated per day from two to three, thus improving overall efficiency.

NEW QUESTION # 171

A project manager is concerned that the team has misaligned expectations with some stakeholders, and that user stories were written only from a generic user's perspective. This may lead the team to miss stories for non-generic users.

What agile tools can help the team address these issues?

- A. Process flows and personas
- B. Information radiators and story maps
- C. Personas and extreme characters
- D. Information radiators and wireframes

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 172

Stakeholders have conflicting requirements, and the product owner is struggling to decide which user stories to write.
What should the product owner do?

- A. Ask the agile practitioner to help write the user stories.
- B. Ask subject matter experts (SMEs) to help write the user stories.
- C. Ask the agile practitioner to facilitate a story-writing workshop.
- D. Ask the agile team to facilitate a story-writing workshop.

Answer: A
