APICS Certified in Planning and Inventory Management (CPIM 8.0) Sample Questions (Q537-Q542):

NEW QUESTION # 537

Exhibit:

Item Identification	Stock	Customer A Order Quantity	Customer B Order Quantity	Customer C Order Quantity
468	11	3	6	3
617	9	6	2	5
643	3	5	11	4

A company has prioritized customers A, B, and C, filling orders in that sequence. What are the impacts to customer service levels for customers B and C?

- A. Customer C has higher service level
- B. Customer B and C have same service level
- C. 100% service levels for B and C
- D. Customer B has higher service level

Answer: D

Explanation:

Customer service level is the percentage of customer orders that are fulfilled on time and in full. A company that prioritizes customers A, B, and C, filling orders in that sequence, will have different impacts on the service levels for customers B and C, depending on the availability of stock and the order quantities. Based on the table in the exhibit, customer B will have a higher service level than customer C, because customer B will receive all the ordered units for item 468 and item 617, while customer C will only receive partial units for item 468 and none for item 617. Customer C will also receive none of the ordered units for item 643, while customer B will receive some of them.

Therefore, customer B will have a higher percentage of orders fulfilled on time and in full than customer C.

NEW QUESTION # 538

Which of the following BEST characterizes the operational benefit of using immutable workloads when working on a cloud-based project?

- A. The cloud service provider is responsible for all security within the workload
- B. Security testing is managed after image creation
- C. Allows a user to enable remote logins to running workloads
- D. No longer have to bring system down to patch

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 539

One way to mitigate liability risk in the supply chain is to:

- A. negotiate lower component cost.
- B. use less-than-truckload (LTL) shipments more frequently.
- C. require traceability for components.

- D. push inventory to supplier locations.

Answer: C

Explanation:

One way to mitigate liability risk in the supply chain is to require traceability for components. Liability risk is the risk that a party may be held responsible for certain types of losses caused by its actions or products to third parties<sup>1</sup>. Traceability is the ability to track the origin, history, location, and movement of a product or a component through the supply chain<sup>2</sup>. Requiring traceability for components can help to mitigate liability risk in the supply chain by enabling the identification and verification of the quality, safety, and compliance of the components, as well as the detection and prevention of counterfeit, defective, or hazardous components. Traceability can also facilitate the recall, repair, or replacement of faulty components, and the allocation of responsibility and accountability among the supply chain partners in case of a liability claim<sup>3,4</sup>. #### NEW QUESTION # 540

An organization uses an external Identity Provider (IdP) to secure internal, external, or third-party applications. Which of the following is the GREATEST risk to the organization?

- A. Integrity of authentication mechanism
- B. Deletion of federated tokens
- C. Unavailability of access logs
- D. Compromise of service

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 541

If all other factors remain the same, when finished goods inventory investment is increased, service levels typically will:

- A. remain the same.
- B. increase at an increasing rate.
- C. increase at a decreasing rate.
- D. increase in direct (linear) proportion.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Increasing finished goods inventory investment will improve service levels by reducing the probability of stockouts. However, the relationship between inventory and service level is not linear, but rather asymptotic. This means that as inventory increases, service level increases at a decreasing rate, approaching a maximum value. Therefore, option C is correct. Option A is incorrect because service level will not remain the same when inventory changes. Option B is incorrect because service level will not increase in direct proportion to inventory. Option D is incorrect because service level will not increase at an increasing rate as inventory increases.
