Salesforce Certified Slack Developer Sample Questions (Q153-Q158):

NEW QUESTION # 153

Your team is designing a Slack app for managing lunch orders in the office. The app needs to allow employees to select their meal options from a daily menu.

What is the best way to design this feature?

- A. Post the menu in a channel and have employees react with emojis to place their orders
- B. Develop a slash command that employees use to enter their meal choices
- C. Implement a drop-down menu in a message for employees to select their meal options
- D. Use a bot to send a daily message and collect orders through direct messages

Answer: C

Explanation:

Implement a drop-down menu in a message for employees to select their meal options A drop-down menu in a message is an efficient and organized way for employees to select their meal options from a daily menu. It offers a structured and streamlined method for making selections, reducing clutter and confusion.

Why not the other options:

*Slash commands might require employees to remember specific commands and format their responses, which can be less user-friendly.

*Collecting orders through direct messages can be cumbersome and lacks the visibility of a group-based order system.

*Using emojis for orders can be confusing and does not provide the structured approach that a drop-down menu does.

NEW QUESTION # 154

When integrating third-party services into your Slack app, what security aspect is crucial to safeguard user data?

- A. Rigorously vet and verify the security standards of the third-party services
- B. Assume all third-party services are secure and require no additional verification
- C. Implement less stringent data validation for trusted third-party services
- D. Use only well-known third-party services, regardless of their security practices

Answer: A

Explanation:

Rigorously vet and verify the security standards of the third-party services Rigorously vetting and verifying the security standards of any third-party services integrated into your app is crucial. This ensures that these services adhere to high-security standards and do not compromise user data security.

Why not the other options:

*Assuming all third-party services are secure without verification can lead to potential security vulnerabilities.

*Using well-known third-party services does not guarantee they follow adequate security practices.

*Implementing less stringent data validation, even for trusted services, can create security loopholes.

NEW QUESTION # 155

If you want to develop a Slack app that needs to be notified whenever a new member joins the workspace, which event in the Slack Events API should you subscribe to?

- A. member_left
- B. team_join
- C. user_change
- D. channel_created

Answer: B

Explanation:

team_join team_join is the correct event to subscribe to for receiving notifications when a new member joins the workspace. This allows the app to perform actions like sending welcome messages or updating a user directory.

Why not the other options:

*User_change is used for detecting updates to user profiles, not for new member arrivals.

*Member_left is used for detecting when members leave the workspace, which is the opposite of the desired functionality.

*Channel_created is for monitoring the creation of new channels, not for tracking new workspace members.

NEW QUESTION # 156

When retrieving sensitive user data for use in your Slack app, what is the best practice to ensure data security?

- A. Use a common password across the team to access the encrypted data
- B. Encrypt the data during transmission and store it in a secure, encrypted format
- C. Store the data in a shared cloud storage service for easy access
- D. Transmit and store the data without encryption to improve performance

Answer: B

Explanation:

Encrypt the data during transmission and store it in a secure, encrypted format Encrypting sensitive user data during transmission and storing it in a secure, encrypted format is essential for maintaining confidentiality and integrity. This practice ensures that the data remains protected both in transit and at rest.

Why not the other options:

*Transmitting and storing data without encryption exposes it to potential breaches and unauthorized access.

*Storing sensitive data in a shared cloud storage service without proper security measures can lead to vulnerabilities and unauthorized access.

*Using a common password across the team can lead to security risks if the password is mishandled or leaked.

Answer: D

Explanation:

It provides immediate visual feedback, enabling developers to see how their designs will look in Slack and adjust them in real-time.
