NAHQ Certified Professional in Healthcare Quality Examination Sample Questions (Q250-Q255):

NEW QUESTION # 250

Which of the following is most important to include in a project to reduce post-operative infections?

- A. a multidisciplinary team
- B. staff education
- C. evidence-based literature
- D. data collection tools

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation: Reducing post-operative infections requires a comprehensive approach that addresses multiple facets of care delivery. According to NAHQ CPHQ study materials, a multidisciplinary team is critical for successful performance improvement projects, particularly for complex issues like healthcare-acquired infections. This team should include representatives from surgery, nursing, infection control, quality management, and other relevant departments to ensure diverse perspectives, shared accountability, and coordinated interventions. While evidence-based literature (A), staff education (C), and data collection tools (D) are important, the multidisciplinary team drives the project's success.

NEW QUESTION # 251

Weighting of scores is frequently recommended if members of a (patients) population have unequal probabilities of being selected for the sample. If necessary, weights are assigned to the different observations to provide a representation picture of the total population.

Weighting should be considered when

- A. An unequal distribution of patients exists by laboratories
- B. An unequal distribution of patients exists by discharge service, nursing unit, or clinic
- C. An equal distribution of patients exists by discharge service, nursing unit, or clinic
- D. An equal distribution of patients exists by ICUs

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 252

The concept of cost-effectiveness in Healthcare delivery means:

- A. Little improvement in Health status of patient is obtained at a very low cost
- B. Great improvement in Health status of patient is obtained at a very low cost
- C. A proportionately justified improvement in health status of patient is obtained comparing to the cost incurred.
- D. Little improvement in Health status of patient is obtained at a very high cost

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 253

The primary purpose of a management information system is to:

- A. Provide data for quality assessment.
- B. Computerize operations for greater effectiveness.
- C. Provide information that facilitates management decisions.
- D. Guarantee better coordination of organizational change.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 254

Which type of data could best be used to help identify health-determinant information in a patient population?

- A. patient satisfaction
- B. preventive care checklist
- C. payor claims
- D. event reporting

Answer: C

Explanation:

To identify health-determinant information in a patient population, the best type of data would provide insights into the health conditions, healthcare utilization, and possibly socio-economic factors that influence health outcomes.

Payor claims: This type of data is very comprehensive and includes information about diagnoses, treatments, procedures, and healthcare costs. It can reveal patterns in disease prevalence, treatment outcomes, and access to care, which are all crucial for understanding health determinants.

payor claims data (Option A) is the most suitable as it includes detailed records of healthcare services utilized by patients, which can be analyzed to identify broader health determinants within a patient population, such as chronic condition prevalence, treatment accessibility, and potential socioeconomic barriers to health.
