Scrum Professional Scrum Master I Sample Questions (Q110-Q115):

NEW QUESTION # 110

When many Scrum Teams are working on a single product, what best describes the Definition of Done?
(Choose the best answer.)

- A. All Scrum Teams must have a Definition of Done that makes their combined work potentially releasable.
- B. Each Scrum Team uses its own, but must make their definition clear to all other teams so the differences are known.
- C. Each Scrum Team defines and uses its own. The differences are discussed and reconciled during a hardening Sprint.
- D. The Scrum Masters from each Scrum Team define a common Definition of Done.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 111

Which three behaviors demonstrate that a team is self-organizing? (Choose three.)

- A. The Product Owner doesn't need to be at Sprint Retrospectives.
- B. Stakeholders walking in at the Daily Scrum to check progress and work with the Scrum Master to optimize the functional scope for the Sprint.
- C. The Development Team has all the skills needed to create a releasable Increment.
- D. The Development Team inviting external people to the Sprint Planning to ask them how to turn a Product Backlog item into an Increment via a complete and detailed Sprint Backlog.
- E. The Scrum Master is no longer needed.
- F. The Development Team members are working within the boundaries of their functional description and nicely handing off work from analyst to developer to tester to integration.
- G. The Development Team creating their own sprint backlog, reflecting all work that is part of the definition of "Done".
- H. Development Team members collaboratively selecting their own work during the Sprint.

Answer: C,G,H

Explanation:

According to the Scrum Guide, three behaviors that demonstrate that a team is self-organizing are creating their own sprint backlog, having all the skills needed to create a releasable Increment, and collaboratively selecting their own work during the Sprint. The other options are not behaviors that demonstrate self-organization, as they are either contrary to Scrum values and principles (such as stakeholders walking in at the Daily Scrum or working within functional boundaries) or unnecessary for self-organization (such as the Product Owner not being at Sprint Retrospectives or the Development Team inviting external people to the Sprint Planning).

NEW QUESTION # 112

What activities would a Product Owner typically undertake in the phase between the end of the current Sprint and the start of the next Sprint?

- A. Update the project plan with stakeholders.
- B. There are no such activities. The next Sprint starts immediately after the current Sprint.
- C. Refine the Product Backlog.
- D. Work with the Quality Assurance departments on the Increment of the current Sprint.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 113

When should a Sprint Goal be created?

- A. A Sprint Goal is not mandatory in Scrum.
- B. At any time during the Sprint.
- C. During Sprint Planning.
- D. It should have been created in the previous Sprint during Product Backlog refinement.
- E. It must be established before Sprint Planning in order to begin planning.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 114

Which two activities will a Product Owner engage in during a Sprint? (Choose two.)

- A. Update the Sprint burndown chart.
- B. Answer questions from the Development Team about items in the current Sprint.
- C. Prioritize the Development Team's work on the Sprint Backlog.
- D. Run the Daily Scrum.
- E. Work with the stakeholders.

Answer: B,E

Explanation:

The correct answers are D and E, because these are two activities that a Product Owner can engage in during a Sprint. The Scrum Guide states that "the Product Owner is responsible for maximizing the value of the product resulting from work of the Development Team." Therefore, the Product Owner can answer questions from the Development Team about items in the current Sprint, and work with the stakeholders to understand their needs and expectations.
