Microsoft Implementing Analytics Solutions Using Microsoft Fabric Sample Questions (Q159-Q164):

NEW QUESTION # 159
You have a Fabric tenant that contains a workspace named Workspace_DEV. Workspace_DEV contains the semantic models shown in the following table.

Answer:

Explanation:

NEW QUESTION # 160
You have a Microsoft Power Bl semantic model that contains measures. The measures use multiple calculate functions and a filter function.
You are evaluating the performance of the measures.
In which use case will replacing the filter function with the keepfilters function reduce execution time?

- A. when the filter function references a column from a single table that uses Import mode
- B. when the filter function references a measure
- C. when the filter function references columns from multiple tables
- D. when the filter function uses a nested calculate function

Answer: D

Explanation:
The KEEPFILTERS function modifies the way filters are applied in calculations done through the CALCULATE function. It can be particularly beneficial to replace the FILTER function with KEEPFILTERS when the filter context is being overridden by nested CALCULATE functions, which may remove filters that are being applied on a column. This can potentially reduce execution time because KEEPFILTERS maintains the existing filter context and allows the nested CALCULATE functions to be evaluated more efficiently.
References: This information is based on the DAX reference and performance optimization guidelines in the Microsoft Power BI documentation.

NEW QUESTION # 161
You have a Fabric tenant.
You are creating a Fabric Data Factory pipeline.

You have a stored procedure that returns the number of active customers and their average sales for the current month.
You need to add an activity that will execute the stored procedure in a warehouse. The returned values must be available to the downstream activities of the pipeline.
Which type of activity should you add?

- A. Copy data
- B. Stored procedure
- C. Get metadata
- D. Lookup

Answer: D

Explanation:
In a Fabric Data Factory pipeline, to execute a stored procedure and make the returned values available for downstream activities, the Lookup activity is used. This activity can retrieve a dataset from a data store and pass it on for further processing. Here's how you would use the Lookup activity in this context:
* Add a Lookup activity to your pipeline.
* Configure the Lookup activity to use the stored procedure by providing the necessary SQL statement or stored procedure name.
* In the settings, specify that the activity should use the stored procedure mode.
* Once the stored procedure executes, the Lookup activity will capture the results and make them available in the pipeline's memory.
* Downstream activities can then reference the output of the Lookup activity.
References: The functionality and use of Lookup activity within Azure Data Factory is documented in Microsoft's official documentation for Azure Data Factory, under the section for pipeline activities.

NEW QUESTION # 162
You have source data in a CSV file that has the following fields:
* SalesTra nsactionl D
* SaleDate
* CustomerCode
* CustomerName
* CustomerAddress
* ProductCode
* ProductName
* Quantity
* UnitPrice
You plan to implement a star schema for the tables in WH1. Thedimension tables in WH1 will implement Type 2 slowly changing dimension (SCD) logic.
You need to design the tables that will be used for sales transaction analysis and load the source data.
Which type of target table should you specify for the CustomerName, CustomerCode, and SaleDate fields?
To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.
NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.
CC

Answer:

Explanation:
Explanation:
We are designing a star schema for sales transactions. In a star schema:
Dimension tables contain descriptive attributes (e.g., Customer, Product, Date).
Fact tables contain measurable, quantitative data (e.g., SalesTransactionID, Quantity, UnitPrice).
Factless fact tables capture events without numeric measures.
Junk dimensions store miscellaneous low-cardinality attributes.
The requirement says dimension tables will use Type 2 Slowly Changing Dimensions (SCD) # so Customer and Date attributes belong to Dimension tables.
Field-by-field classification
CustomerCode
A business key (natural key) for the customer dimension.
Belongs in the Customer Dimension table.
The Answer:

Dimension.
CustomerName
A descriptive attribute of the customer.
Belongs in the Customer Dimension table.
The Answer:
Dimension.
SaleDate
A time attribute used for analysis.
Belongs in the Date Dimension table.
The Answer:
Dimension.
Final Answer:
CustomerCode # Dimension
CustomerName # Dimension
SaleDate # Dimension

This follows Kimball's star schema best practices.

NEW QUESTION # 163
You have a Fabric tenant that contains two workspaces named Woritspace1 and Workspace2. Workspace1 contains a lakehouse named Lakehouse1. Workspace2 contains a lakehouse named Lakehouse2. Lakehouse!
contains a table named dbo.Sales. Lakehouse2 contains a table named dbo.Customers.
You need to ensure that you can write queries that reference both dbo.Sales and dbo.Customers in the same SQL query without making additional copies of the tables.
What should you use?

- A. a shortcut
- B. a view
- C. a dataflow
- D. a managed table

Answer: A
