Nutanix Certified Associate (NCA) v6.5 exam Sample Questions (Q82-Q87):

NEW QUESTION # 82

Nutanix Support Asked an administrator to provide AHV logs to help solve a support request .Which task should be performed to provide log files to the support team?

- A. Enable Pulse to include additional support information
- B. collect logs from the health Page
- C. Run NCC Check from the command line
- D. Upload log files from /home/nutanix/data/logs folder

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 83

An administrator needs to deploy a two-node cluster on a new ROBO Site. What is required to maintain High Availability in the case of a node failure?

- A. Metro-Availability
- B. Async Replication
- C. Windows Failover Clustering
- D. Witness VM

Answer: D

Explanation:

To maintain high availability in the case of a node failure in a two-node cluster, a Witness VM is required. Therefore, the correct answer is A. The Witness VM acts as a tie-breaker and arbitrator in the event of a split-brain scenario, where both nodes lose connectivity to each other, to ensure that only one node continues to operate and serve workloads. It is also recommended to use a high-performance network to minimize network latency between the two nodes and the Witness VM.

Nutanix Certified Associate (NCA) v6.5 exam Sample Questions (Q95-Q100):

NEW QUESTION # 95

A customer requires the ability to block all network traffic between their VDI VMs and their application VMs running on their Nutanix AHV clusters.

What Nutanix product would meet this requirement?

- A. Flow
- B. Calm
- C. Beam
- D. Era

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 96

Which feature or configuration is best for securing network traffic between the management and storage replication environments?

- A. Use of Firewall Rules
- B. Network Segmentation
- C. Different Storage Containers
- D. VM Anti-Affinity Rules

Answer: B

Explanation:

Network segmentation is the best feature or configuration for securing network traffic between the management and storage replication environments. Network segmentation is the practice of dividing a computer network into subnets, each serving a different purpose or function. By dividing the network into different segments, it is possible to control and monitor the flow of traffic between the different segments, and to implement different security policies for each segment.

For example, the management environment could be segmented from the storage replication environment, and only specific traffic, such as management traffic, would be allowed to flow between the two segments. This can help to protect the management environment from potential security threats that may originate from the storage replication environment.

Other options like firewall rules, VM anti-affinity rules, and different storage containers can also help to secure network traffic, but network segmentation provides a more comprehensive and granular way to secure the traffic between different environments.

You can find more information on this topic in the Nutanix Security Configuration Guide, which is available on the Nutanix support website: https://portal.nutanix.com/#/page/docs/details?targetId=Security-Guide-v5\_24:Security-Guide-v5\_24

NEW QUESTION # 97

An administrator needs to upgrade AOS for an air gapped cluster by using Prism Element.

Which two actions allow the administrator to perform the upgrade? Choose Two

- A. Manually Upload Binaries to a local http server
- B. Use the LCM dark site Option Providing AOS Binaries
- C. Manually Upload AOS binaries and metadata
- D. Extract the AOS binaries to the CVM

Answer: B,C

NEW QUESTION # 98

When should Pulse be disabled?

- A. When the cluster is connected to the Internet with less than 1GbE.
- B. Before any cluster maintenance activities requiring node reboots.

- C. Only under the guidance of Nutanix Support.
- D. When the cluster is deployed in 3 data-site.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Pulse should only be disabled under the guidance of Nutanix Support and not for any other reason. Pulse is a feature of the Nutanix cluster that enables the cluster to report back health and performance data to Nutanix for troubleshooting and performance optimization purposes. Disabling Pulse without the guidance of Nutanix Support is not recommended, as it could lead to potential issues with the cluster. ## NEW QUESTION # 99

What data is stored as a file on storage devices owned by a CVM?

- A. Container
- B. Extent Group
- C. vDisk
- D. Storage Pool

Answer: C

Explanation:

A vDisk is a file that is stored on storage devices owned by a CVM. A vDisk represents a virtual disk that is attached to a VM or a CVM. A Storage Pool is a logical grouping of physical disks in a cluster. An Extent Group is a collection of data blocks that belong to a vDisk. A Container is a logical grouping of vDisks that share the same storage policies and settings. Reference: <https://www.nutanix.com/content/dam/nutanix/resources/misc/ebg-nca-6-5.pdf> (pages 31-32)
