Salesforce Certified B2C Commerce Architect Sample Questions (Q25-Q30):

NEW QUESTION # 25

The Client wishes to implement a third party integration that allows for free shipping. If the customer is a member of the third party service, when the customer's order is exported to the Order Management System (OMS) it also creates a custom object in order to track additional data before sending that order data to the third-party service as well.

What technical concern should the Architect raise to protect performance and stability of the site?

- A. The customer order quota and related retention or deletion needs.
- B. The OMS having order data sent to a third party and related security needs.
- C. The custom object quota and related retention or deletion needs.
- D. The customer's order data sent to a third-party and related security needs.

Answer: C

Explanation:

When integrating a third-party service that relies on custom objects in B2C Commerce, the primary technical concern is the impact on performance and site stability related to the usage of these objects. Important considerations include:

* Custom object quota: Ensuring that the use of custom objects does not exceed platform limits, which could impact performance or even prevent new data from being stored.

* Retention or deletion needs: Proper management of custom object lifecycle is crucial to prevent data bloat and maintain database performance, including strategies for timely deletion or archiving of old data.

Addressing these concerns is critical to maintaining the performance and stability of the site while integrating third-party services that require extensive data handling.

NEW QUESTION # 26

The Client has implemented a different category/search layout for mobile and desktop. The code uses a session attribute called deviceType to choose the corresponding layout. This attribute is populated from the browser user agent. After this implementation they have run into these problems:

* Sometimes desktop pages are being served to both desktop and mobile customers.

* Sometimes mobile pages are being served to both desktop and mobile customers.

The page has caching implemented that depends on promotions. SEC is very important and the site traffic is high.

Which solution should the Architect select to resolve the issue without impacting the existing requirements?

- A. Disable caching for these pages to ensure that the correct template is used to render the mobile and desktop pages.
- B. Change the URL structure to include desktop and mobile as URL parameters to ensure different cached versions of the page.
- C. Create customer groups for desktop and mobile users and empty promotions linked to these groups to ensure different cached versions of the page.
- D. Create customer groups for desktop and mobile users and use remote includes based on these groups to render the mobile and desktop pages.

Answer: B

Explanation:

To resolve the issue of incorrect page versions being served across different devices, changing the URL structure to include device-specific parameters can be highly effective. By adding parameters such as 'desktop' or 'mobile' to the URLs:

* The caching mechanism can differentiate between the content for different device types, thus caching and serving the correct version of the page according to the device type specified in the URL.

* This method allows for maintaining existing caching strategies linked to promotions and ensures that SEO is not adversely affected since the content remains the same per device type but is merely served through different URLs.

This approach addresses the core issue without requiring disabling of caching or reengineering existing promotional structures, hence preserving site performance and user experience.

NEW QUESTION # 27

An Architect has been approached by the Business with a request to create a custom product finder. The finder would initially be available on only one site, and would eventually be extended to be available on all sites the Business maintains. There is a requirement that these widgets are also available to be used in a Job context for export to other systems.

Each site will have a different category available for use by the product finder.

Where should the Architect store the custom settings for use on both the storefront and in a job context?

- A. Custom Object with an Organizational Scope
- B. Jobs Framework parameters
- C. Custom Object with a Site Scope
- D. Category custom attributes

Answer: A

Explanation:

To manage custom settings for a product finder that needs to be accessible both on the storefront and in a job context, storing these settings in a Custom Object with an Organizational Scope is most appropriate. This allows the settings to be centralized and accessible across different sites and job contexts, ensuring consistency and reusability of the configurations:

* Organizational Scope: Enables settings to be shared across multiple sites without duplicating data, maintaining a single source of truth for configurations that affect various parts of the organization.

* Custom Object: Provides the flexibility to define specific attributes and values that are unique to the business requirements of the product finder and other integrations.

NEW QUESTION # 28

During a review of the most recent release notes, the Architect finds that Salesforce has deprecated an API that is used throughout the site. After reviewing the deprecated API usage in Business Manager, the Architect narrows down the usage of that API to a particular LINK integration cartridge. The cartridge was integrated when the site was first launched and is heavily customized for the Client.

What is the recommended way for the Architect to remove the deprecated API so the LINK integration continues to work without interruptions, and lowest level of effort?

- A. The Architect does not need to do anything at this time, the API will continue to work with no issues for the foreseeable future.
- B. The Architect should contact the company that created the LINK cartridge to fix the issue and provide the client with updated code.
- C. The Architect should update all the deprecated API calls in the already integrated LINK cartridge and test thoroughly.
- D. The Architect should check to see if the LINK cartridge has been updated already, integrate it, apply the customizations, and test thoroughly.

Answer: D

Explanation:

When facing a deprecated API that is used in a LINK integration cartridge, the recommended approach is to check for an updated version of the cartridge that may have replaced the deprecated API with a supported one.

If an update is available:

* Integrate the updated cartridge into the site, ensuring compatibility with the current site configuration.

* Re-apply customizations that were made to the original cartridge to maintain functional consistency.

* Thorough testing should be conducted to ensure that the integration works seamlessly without causing disruptions in the site's functionality.

This approach minimizes effort by leveraging updates provided by the cartridge vendor while ensuring the site remains functional and compliant with current API standards.

NEW QUESTION # 29

During implementation, the team found that there is a notification controller exposed for an external service that marks the order as paid when notification is received. The notification URL is sent to the service together with the payment request and contains only the URL with orderID as the parameter.

What should the Architect recommend to the team in order to prevent the unauthorized usage of the controller to mark the orders as paid?

- A. Add an order token in the callback URL and match the token against the one stored on the order.
- B. Add HTTPS restriction to the controller start node.
- C. Add a session attribute and validate it on the callback.
- D. Add a customer number in the callback URL and match the customer number against the one stored on the order.

Answer: A

Explanation:

To enhance the security of the notification controller exposed for marking orders as paid, the recommended approach is to add an order-specific token to the callback URL (Answer C). This token should be verified against a stored value on the order to ensure the authenticity and integrity of the payment notification. This method prevents unauthorized use of the controller, as only callbacks containing the correct, order-specific token would be allowed to mark orders as paid. This strategy is essential in maintaining secure and reliable transaction processes within Salesforce B2C Commerce.
