- B. $ twistcli images scan \--address \--user \--password \--verbose \myimage: latest

- D. $ twistcli images scan \--address \--user \--password \--console \myimage: latest

NEW QUESTION # 97
The Compute Console has recently been upgraded, and the administrator plans to delay upgrading the Defenders and the Twistcli tool until some of the team's resources have been rescaled. The Console is currently one major release ahead.
What will happen as a result of the Console upgrade?

- A. Both Defenders and Twistcli will remain working.
- B. Defenders will disconnect, and Twistcli will stop working.
- C. Defenders will disconnect, and Twistcli will remain working.
- D. Defenders will remain connected, and Twistcli will stop working.

Answer: A

Explanation:
When the Compute Console in Prisma Cloud is upgraded to a newer major release, while the Defenders and the Twistcli tool remain on the older version, the system is designed to ensure backward compatibility to a certain extent. As a result, both Defenders and Twistcli will continue to operate despite the version discrepancy. The Defenders will remain connected, continuing their monitoring and protection duties, and the Twistcli tool will keep functioning, allowing for continued scanning and other CLI-based operations. This design ensures that the security and functionality of the environment are not abruptly interrupted due to the upgrade process, providing administrators with a window to plan and execute the upgrade of Defenders and Twistcli without immediate pressure.

NEW QUESTION # 98
Which RQL query type is invalid?

- A. Config
- B. Incident
- C. IAM
- D. Event

Answer: B

Explanation:
Within Prisma Cloud's Resource Query Language (RQL), the "Incident" query type is invalid because RQL is designed to query configuration and posture information of cloud resources, not incident data. The valid RQL query types include "Config" for querying resource configurations, "Network" for querying network-related information, "IAM" for querying identity and access management configurations, and "Event" for querying audit events. The focus on resource configurations and audit events aligns with Prisma Cloud's capabilities in cloud security posture management (CSPM) and cloud workload protection platform (CWPP), providing insights into resource configurations, compliance, and network traffic.Top of Form Bottom of Form

NEW QUESTION # 99
During the Learning phase of the Container Runtime Model, Prisma Cloud enters a "dry run" period for how many hours?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: B

Explanation:
Learning mode is the phase in which Prisma Cloud performs either static or dynamic analysis. Because the model depends on behavioral inputs, images stay in learning mode for 1 hour to complete the model. After this 1 hour, Prisma Cloud enters a 'dry run' period for 24 hours to ensure there are no behavioral changes and the model is complete. If during these 24 hours, behavioral changes are observed, the model goes back to Learning mode for an additional 24 hours.

NEW QUESTION # 100
What happens when a role is deleted in Prisma Cloud?

- A. Any integrations that use the access key to make calls to Prisma Cloud will stop working.
- B. The access key associated with that role is automatically deleted.
- C. The users associated with that role will be deleted.
- D. Any user who uses that key will be deleted.

Answer: B

Explanation:
When you create an access key, the key is tied to the role with which you logged in and if you delete the role, the access key is automatically deleted. https://docs.paloaltonetworks.com/prisma/prisma-cloud/prisma-cloud- admin/manage-prisma-cloud-administrators/create-access-keys
