HPE Aruba Networking ClearPass Exam Sample Questions (Q83-Q88):

NEW QUESTION # 83

Which two methods are commonly used by ClearPass to discover and profile endpoints?

(Choose two)

Response:

- A. SNMP polling
- B. NTP time requests
- C. SQL queries
- D. DHCP fingerprinting

Answer: A,D

NEW QUESTION # 84

An IT administrator notices that a client endpoint has failed a health check and wants to send a notification that will not only inform the user but also force the client to re-authenticate. Which action should the administrator take?

- A. Send a notification to disable the network interface.
- B. Send a notification with an action to restart the session.
- C. Send a message to disable the network interface.

Answer: B

Explanation:

In OnGuard, you can configure Post-Auth Actions . When a device fails compliance, simply telling the user is often not enough. By choosing an action to "Restart the session," ClearPass sends a RADIUS CoA (Change of Authorization) to the switch or controller, which bounces the user's connection. This forces the device to re-authenticate, at which point the new "Unhealthy" status will trigger a restricted or quarantine policy.

NEW QUESTION # 85

Which ClearPass component is responsible for performing device profiling?

- A. ClearPass Profiler
- B. ClearPass Onboard
- C. ClearPass Policy Manager
- D. ClearPass Guest

Answer: A

Explanation:

ClearPass Profiler is used to identify and classify devices connected to the network based on various characteristics, such as device type, operating system, and other identifiers.

NEW QUESTION # 86

A company's IT department is tasked with ensuring data replication across multiple ClearPass servers while maintaining redundancy and failover capabilities. They need to perform license management operations for the cluster. Where should these license management operations be performed to ensure they are properly applied across the cluster?

- A. On a dedicated license server
- B. On the server with the active Insights database
- C. On the publisher

Answer: C

Explanation:

In a ClearPass cluster, the Publisher is the central "Source of Truth" for all configuration and licensing data.

While Subscriber nodes handle the actual authentication traffic, they receive their policy and license updates via replication from the Publisher. Therefore, all license management -including adding new license keys or re-allocating capacity-must be performed on the Publisher's web interface.

NEW QUESTION # 87

A security analyst is tasked with monitoring the network for any unusual authentication activities over the past month. They need to filter the dashboard to view this specific time range. How should they proceed?

- A. Use the custom option with the date picker to select the past month
- B. Check the Insight header statistics for the past month
- C. Review the Authentication Service widget for the past month

Answer: A

Explanation:

The analyst should use the custom option with the date picker in ClearPass Insight to select the past month as the time range. This allows precise filtering of dashboard data, enabling detailed analysis of authentication activity and identification of any unusual patterns during that specific period.
