Adobe Commerce Developer Professional Sample Questions (Q78-Q83):

NEW QUESTION # 78

Which index mode is valid?

- A. Update on save
- B. Update on invalidate
- C. Update on refresh

Answer: A

Explanation:

"Update on save" is a valid index mode in Magento, where the index is set to update automatically whenever a change is saved. This mode ensures that the index remains up-to-date with the latest data changes, such as product or category updates, immediately reflecting these changes on the storefront. This real-time indexing is crucial for maintaining data accuracy and consistency across the Magento site, especially in dynamic environments with frequent updates.

NEW QUESTION # 79

An Adobe Commerce developer is working on a module to manage custom brand entities and wants to replicate the following SQL query using SearchCriteria:

```
$filter1->setField('featured')
    ->setValue(1)
    ->setConditionType('eq');

$filter2->setField('logo_image')
    ->setConditionType('notnull');

$filterGroup1->setFilters([$filter1, $filter2]);

$filter3->setField('enabled')
    ->setValue(1)
    ->setConditionType('eq');

$filterGroup2->setFilters([$filter3]);

$searchCriteria->setFilterGroups([$filterGroup1, $filterGroup2]);
```

- A.
- B.

```
$filter1->setField('enabled')
    ->setValue(1)
    ->setConditionType('eq');

$searchCriteria->setFilter($filter1);
$filter2->condition('featured = ? OR logo_image ?, [1, 'IS NOT NULL'])
$searchCriteria->setSelectFields($filter2);
```

```
$filter1->setField('featured')
    ->setValue(1)
    ->setConditionType('eq');

$filter2->setField('logo_image')
    ->setConditionType('notnull');

$filter3->setField('enabled')
    ->setValue(1)
    ->setConditionType('eq');

$searchCriteria->setFilter($filter3)
    ->setOrFilter([$filter1, $filter2]);
```

- C.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The correct answer is Option A. This approach uses two filter groups to correctly implement the logic from the SQL query using Magento's SearchCriteria API.

* Understanding the Logic: The given SQL query contains two main conditions:

* featured = 1 AND logo_image IS NOT NULL (grouped together with an AND condition)

* enabled = 1

In the Magento SearchCriteria terms, these translate to:

* Filter Group 1: featured = 1 AND logo_image IS NOT NULL

* Filter Group 2: enabled = 1

The two filter groups are then combined using an implicit AND condition.

* Magento's SearchCriteria Structure: The SearchCriteria object is the recommended way in Magento

2 to filter and retrieve collections with complex conditions.

* Filter Groups: Used to group filters together. All filters within a filter group are combined with an AND condition.

* Filters: Define a condition for a single field.

* Explanation of the Code for Option A:

* Filter 1 is created for the featured field, set to 1 with an eq condition type.

* Filter 2 is created for the logo_image field, with a notnull condition type.

* Both Filter 1 and Filter 2 are combined into Filter Group 1, which applies an AND condition between these filters.

* Filter 3 is created for the enabled field, set to 1 with an eq condition type.

* Filter Group 2 contains only Filter 3.

* Finally, both filter groups are set on the SearchCriteria object. By default, the SearchCriteria combines filter groups using an AND condition between them.

- * Why Option A is Correct: Option A uses two filter groups that exactly match the desired SQL query logic:
- * It correctly combines featured and logo_image in an AND condition.
- * It then checks if enabled is 1, which is handled by the second filter group.

NEW QUESTION # 80

Which type of product would assist a seller who would like to offer an electronic version of an album for sale and sell each song individually?

- A. Configurable
- B. Simple
- C. Downloadable

Answer: C

Explanation:

The type of product that would assist a seller in offering an electronic version of an album and selling each song individually is a Downloadable product. In Adobe Commerce, a Downloadable product type is specifically designed for selling digital products such as music files, which customers can download. This type of product allows sellers to upload individual songs and sell them separately or as part of a complete album.

NEW QUESTION # 81

During database migration in the Adobe Commerce Cloud integration environment, a developer experienced a disk space error causing the database import to fail.

How would the developer fix this issue?

- A. Increase the disk space of the database service.
- B. Add a new database node and enable split database.
- C. Change the database engine to PostgreSQL that has no disk space limit.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The developer can fix this issue by increasing the disk space of the database service. The database service is one of the services that run on the Adobe Commerce Cloud platform and provide functionality for the application. The database service uses MySQL as the database engine and stores data for products, customers, orders, etc. The disk space of the database service determines how much data can be stored and processed by the database. If the disk space is insufficient, the database import can fail with a disk space error. The developer can increase the disk space of the database service by modifying the .magento/services.yaml file and redeploying the environment. Verified References: [Magento 2.4 DevDocs]

NEW QUESTION # 82

Which command can be used to display a full list of enabled and disabled Magento modules?

- A. bin/magento module:all
- B. bin/magento module:status
- C. bin/magento module:show

Answer: B

Explanation:

The command to display a full list of enabled and disabled Magento modules is bin/magento module:status.

This command provides a comprehensive overview of all modules within the Magento instance, categorizing them into enabled and disabled modules. This information is crucial for debugging and development purposes, as it allows developers to quickly understand which components of Magento are active and which are not, facilitating troubleshooting and configuration adjustments.
