Splunk IT Service Intelligence Certified Admin Sample Questions (Q53-Q58):

NEW QUESTION # 53

Which of the following is a recommended best practice for ITSI installation?

- A. Install the Machine Learning Toolkit app if anomaly detection must be configured.
- B. ITSI should not be installed on search heads that have Enterprise Security installed.

- C. Before installing ITSI, make sure the Common Information Model (CIM) is installed.
- D. Install ITSI on one search head in a search head cluster and migrate the configuration bundle to other search heads.

Answer: B

Explanation:

One of the recommended best practices for Splunk IT Service Intelligence (ITSI) installation is to avoid installing ITSI on search heads that already have Splunk Enterprise Security (ES) installed. This recommendation stems from potential resource conflicts and performance issues that can arise when both resource-intensive applications are deployed on the same instance. Both ITSI and ES are complex applications that require significant system resources to function effectively, and running them concurrently on the same search head can lead to degraded performance, conflicts in resource allocation, and potential stability issues. It's generally advised to segregate these applications onto separate Splunk instances to ensure optimal performance and stability for both platforms.

NEW QUESTION # 54

Which deep dive swim lane type does not require writing SPL?

- A. KPI lane.
- B. Metric lane.
- C. Automatic lane.
- D. Event lane.

Answer: A

Explanation:

A KPI lane is a type of deep dive swim lane that does not require writing SPL. You can simply select a service and a KPI from a drop-down list and ITSI will automatically populate the lane with the corresponding data. You can also adjust the threshold settings and time range for the KPI lane. References: [KPI Lanes]

NEW QUESTION # 55

What is the minimum number of entities a KPI must be split by in order to use Entity Cohesion anomaly detection?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: D

Explanation:

For Entity Cohesion anomaly detection in Splunk IT Service Intelligence (ITSI), the minimum number of entities a KPI must be split by is 2. Entity Cohesion as a method of anomaly detection focuses on identifying anomalies based on the deviation of an entity's behavior in comparison to other entities within the same group or cohort. By requiring a minimum of only two entities, ITSI allows for the comparison of entities to detect significant deviations in one entity's performance or behavior, which could indicate potential issues. This method leverages the idea that entities performing similar functions or within the same service should exhibit similar patterns of behavior, and significant deviations could be indicative of anomalies. The low minimum requirement of two entities ensures that this powerful anomaly detection feature can be utilized even in smaller environments.

NEW QUESTION # 56

Which is the least permissive role required to modify default deep dives?

- A. itoa_admin
- B. admin
- C. itoa_analyst
- D. power

Answer: A

Explanation:

To modify default deep dives in Splunk IT Service Intelligence (ITSI), the least permissive role typically required is the itoa_admin role. This role is specifically designed within ITSI to provide administrative capabilities, including the ability to configure and customize various aspects of ITSI, such as services, KPIs, and deep dives. The itoa_admin role has the necessary permissions to edit and manage default deep dives, enabling users with this role to tailor the deep dives to meet specific operational requirements and preferences. Other roles like itoa_analyst, admin, or power might not have sufficient privileges to modify default deep dives, as these roles are generally more restricted in terms of their ability to make broad changes within ITSI.

Which of the following describes a way to delete multiple duplicate entities in ITSI?

- A. Via a search using the | deleteentity command.
- B. Via the entity lister page.
