Lpi LPIC-1 Exam 101, Part 1 of 2, version 5.0 Sample Questions (Q112-Q117):

NEW QUESTION # 112

Which of the following statements is correct when talking about /proc/?

- A. All changes to files in /proc/ are stored in /etc/proc.d/ and restored on reboot.
- B. All files within /proc/ are only readable by the root user.
- C. All changes to files in /proc/ are immediately recognized by the kernel.
- D. All files within /proc/ are read-only and their contents cannot be changed.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation

The /proc/ directory is a virtual filesystem that provides a view of the kernel's data structures and parameters.

It contains information about processes, hardware, memory, modules, and other aspects of the system. The files in /proc/ are not stored on disk, but are generated on the fly by the kernel when they are accessed. Therefore, any changes to files in /proc/ are immediately recognized by the kernel and affect its behavior. For example, writing a value to /proc/sys/kernel/hostname will change the system's hostname without rebooting. The files in /proc/ are not all read-only; some of them can be modified by the root user or by processes with the appropriate permissions. The files in /proc/ are readable by any user, unless restricted by the kernel or by the mount options. References: LPI Linux Essentials - 1.101.2, LPI Linux Administrator - 102.3

NEW QUESTION # 113

What effect does the sticky bit have when set on a directory?

- A. It provides a hint to the kernel that files in this directory should be cached in memory, if possible.
- B. There is no effect because the sticky bit has been deprecated in Linux.
- C. It restricts deletion of files in this directory to only the root user and the file owner regardless of write permissions for other users.
- D. It instructs the kernel to keep the underlying data for the files in the directory intact to allow for undeletion of important files.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 114

Which command is used to create and initialize the files used to store quota information? (Specify ONLY the command without any path or parameters.)

Answer:

Explanation:

quotacheck

Explanation

The command that is used to create and initialize the files used to store quota information is quotacheck. This command scans one or more file systems for disk usage, creates, checks, and repairs quota files. The quota files are named aquota.user and aquota.group and are located in the root of the file system.

The quotacheck command should be run before using quotaon to enable disk quotas.
