VMware Avi Load Balancer 30.x Administrator Sample Questions (Q74-Q79):

NEW QUESTION # 74

The Network Operations Center has reported dramatically fewer entries in the Logs tab of a new Virtual Service after the first 30 minutes of operation. What is the likely cause of the reduced log volume?

- A. A widespread internet outage has occurred
- B. The Service Engine has throttled logging due to high CPU load
- C. Logs are being sent to syslog instead of the Logs tab
- D. Non-significant logs are not enabled

Answer: D

Explanation:

Avi Load Balancer does not continuously forward and index every client transaction log by default.

Broadcom documentation states that both significant and non-significant logs are not automatically forwarded by Service Engines to the Controller cluster for indexing by default. A newly created or newly enabled Virtual Service may show more log activity initially, but after the initial period, ordinary successful transactions are not shown unless non-significant logging or a user-defined client log filter is enabled. Significant logs, such as errors or policy-related events, continue to appear because they are operationally important. Therefore, if the Logs tab suddenly shows dramatically fewer entries after the first 30 minutes, the likely reason is that non-significant logs are not enabled.

NEW QUESTION # 75

A Virtual Service for an online shopping site normally receives very low levels of traffic overnight. Due to the global launch of a new high-demand product, the site is experiencing traffic between 3 AM and 4 AM that is comparable to the daily peak load levels, when the Health Score is generally 100. How will the Health Score likely be affected, if at all, by this product launch?

- A. The Health Score would be reduced due to incurring a Security Penalty
- B. The Health Score would not be affected
- C. The Health Score would be reduced due to incurring an Anomaly Penalty
- D. The Health Score would be reduced due to a lowering of the Performance score

Answer: C

Explanation:

Avi Load Balancer health scoring uses analytics to compare current application behavior against expected or learned behavior.

VMware Avi documentation explains that the system relies on analytics to determine health based on expectations of what a Virtual Service is expected to experience. It also describes the health score as the performance score minus resource and anomaly penalty scores. In this scenario, the application normally has very low traffic between 3 AM and 4 AM, but suddenly receives traffic comparable to daily peak levels.

Even if the application performs well and users do not experience slowness, the unusual traffic pattern can be treated as anomalous compared with the learned baseline for that time period. Therefore, the most likely health score impact is an Anomaly Penalty.

NEW QUESTION # 76

A Network Architect is designing a load balancing solution for a stateless UDP application (e.g., a DNS service). Which load balancing algorithm is most suitable and efficient for this type of application?

- A. Fastest Response
- B. Least Connections
- C. Round Robin
- D. Consistent Hash

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 77

When does the Avi Controller automatically create a new Service Engine within a Service Engine Group configured in a vCenter "Write Access" cloud?

- A. When a new Virtual Service needs to be placed, but all existing SEs in the group have already reached their max_vs_per_se limit.
- B. When the Avi Controller itself is rebooted.
- C. When the ha_mode is set to N+M and the number of active SEs is less than N.
- D. When a new Virtual Service is created, and the placement mode is "Distributed".

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 78

An Avi Administrator is managing a multi-tenant environment where different applications have varying performance requirements. One tenant reports that their Virtual Service (vs-tenant-A) failed to scale out during a traffic spike. Another administrator mentions that a different Virtual Service (vs-internal-utils) in the same Service Engine Group was undergoing a manual scale-out at the exact same time. The administrator suspects a resource contention issue. Which Avi Controller setting could be adjusted to prevent one Virtual Service's scaling activities from impacting another?

- A. Configure a VS-Scaleout alert with a lower threshold for vs-tenant-A.
- B. Enable 'Dedicated Service Engines' for vs-tenant-A.
- C. Increase the se_group_scalable_max_cpu_pct in the cloud configuration.
- D. Adjust the placement_mode in the Service Engine Group to 'Compact'.

Answer: D
