How should an administrator ensure the proper users will receive the email?

- A. Configure a queue for the project team and have members view the queue's list view.
- B. Move the project users to the same role and send the email alert to everyone in the role.
- C. Use sharing rules to automatically share with the individual users in the project team.
- D. Create public groups for each project team and send the email alert to the project group.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Public groups let you share records with a set of users defined by criteria such as role, profile, or individual users. You can use public groups as recipients for email alerts in workflow rules or process builder.

NEW QUESTION # 93

When should an administrator apply a permission set to a user or group of users versus configuring the user's profile with the necessary access?

- A. When a user is part of a team with an assigned profile that covers the majority of their needs but requires more access than the rest of their team.
- B. When a user is part of a team with an assigned profile that covers the majority of their needs but requires just a little less access than the rest of their team.
- C. When an organization has opted out of using the standard profiles and created custom profiles.
- D. When an organization's sharing model is too broad and they need to restrict access beyond what their sharing model and existing profiles provide.

Answer: A

Explanation:

As explained in question 13, permission sets are collections of settings and permissions that give users access to various tools and functions without changing their profile or requiring multiple profiles for users who perform different tasks across apps in your org. Permission sets are useful when a user is part of a team with an assigned profile that covers the majority of their needs but requires more access than the rest of their team for some specific tasks or functions. For example, a user may need access to a custom object or field that is not available to their profile, but only for a limited time or project. In this case, assigning a permission set to the user can grant them the additional access they need without affecting their profile or other users with the same profile. NEW QUESTION # 94

The administrator at Cloud Kicks is troubleshooting an issue one user is having with a flow. They have decided to add a debug log to that user.

What debug log category should be used?

- A. System
- B. Workflow
- C. Callout
- D. Database

Answer: B

Explanation:

Workflow is the debug log category that should be used to troubleshoot an issue with a flow. Workflow is a debug log category that captures information about workflow rules, flows, processes, approval processes, and entitlement processes. Workflow can help identify errors or issues related to these automation tools by showing details such as evaluation criteria, actions executed, variables assigned, and outcomes reached.

NEW QUESTION # 95

Cloud Kicks tracks project details in a custom Project object. Project Milestones are tracked in a second custom object, with a reference to the parent Project record. Users need to automatically create a standard set of related Project Milestones when a Project record is created.

What is the recommended automation solution?

- A. Before-save autolaunched flow
- B. Field Service flow
- C. Scheduled flow
- D. After-save autolaunched flow

Answer: D

Explanation:

An after-save autolaunched flow is a type of flow that runs in the background when a record is saved and performs actions based on the record data or changes. An after-save autolaunched flow does not require user input or interaction and can be triggered by a record-triggered flow element or by an Apex trigger. In this case, you can create an after-save autolaunched flow that runs when a Project record is created and creates a standard set of related Project Milestone records based on predefined values or variables.
