NEW QUESTION # 94

HTML:

` The current status of an Order: In Progress ` Which JavaScript statement changes 'In Progress' to 'Completed'?

- A. `document.getElementById("#status").innerHTML = 'Completed';`
- B. `document.getElementById("status").innerHTML = 'Completed';`
- C. `document.getElementById(".status").innerHTML = 'Completed';`
- D. `document.getElementById("status").Value = 'Completed';`

Answer: B

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract JavaScript Knowledge To select an element by ID, JavaScript uses: `document.getElementById("status")`

The ID must be passed without any selector prefixes (no dot, no hash).

Then, to update the text inside:

element.innerHTML = 'Completed';

Why the others are wrong:

A uses ".status" which would match a CSS class, not an ID.

B incorrectly prepends #, which is used in CSS selectors but not in `getElementById`.

D attempts to use `.Value` with capital V, which is incorrect for DOM text; `.value` only applies to form elements.

Thus, option C is correct.

JavaScript Knowledge Reference (text-only)

`getElementById` takes a raw ID string with no prefixes.

`innerHTML` updates an element's displayed HTML content.
