NEW QUESTION # 320

Two companies that operate in the same industry have different Price/Earnings (P/E) ratios as follows:

Which of the following is the most likely explanation of the different P/E ratios?

- A. Company B has a greater profit this year than Company A.
- B. Company B has higher expected future growth than Company A.
- C. Company B has higher gearing than Company A.
- D. Company B has higher business risk than Company A.

Answer: B

Explanation:

A higher P/E ratio usually reflects higher expected future growth and/or lower perceived risk. Among the options, only higher expected growth explains why Company B's P/E (15) is greater than Company A's (8).

Higher risk or higher gearing would normally reduce the P/E, not increase it, and current profit level alone doesn't determine the multiple.
