SAP Certified Associate - Integration Developer Sample Questions (Q15-Q20):

NEW QUESTION # 15

You are creating an API in the API management capability within SAP Integration Suite using Edit in API Designer. What is the next step to consolidate the resources?

- A. Generate the database tables.
- B. Generate the microservices.
- C. Generate the client stubs
- D. Generate the server stubs

Answer: D

Explanation:

After creating an API in the API management capability within SAP Integration Suite using Edit in API Designer, the next step to consolidate the resources is to generate the server stubs. Server stubs are code snippets that implement the API operations on a server-side application. They can be generated in different languages and frameworks, such as Java, Node.js, Python, or Spring Boot. Generating server stubs can help you to quickly prototype and test your API functionality without writing much code.

NEW QUESTION # 16

What kind of editor can you use to manipulate integration flows?

- A. Graphical editor
- B. Code editor
- C. Command-line editor

Answer: A

Explanation:

In SAP Cloud Integration, integration flows are manipulated using a web-based graphical editor:

Allows drag-and-drop of adapters, mappings, scripts, and process steps.

Provides visual orchestration of message flows.

Command-line and raw code editors are not supported for iFlow design (though XML behind the iFlow exists, it is not directly edited by developers).

Thus, the editor is the Graphical editor.

NEW QUESTION # 17

You want to implement a synchronous call to a remote HTTP API as an integration flow component. Which adapter can you use?

- A. AMQP
- B. OData
- C. Mail
- D. SFTP

Answer: B

Explanation:

You can use an OData adapter to implement a synchronous call to a remote HTTP API as an integration flow component. An OData adapter allows you to send and receive messages using the OData protocol. OData stands for Open Data Protocol and is a standard for exposing and consuming data over HTTP or HTTPS. You can use an OData adapter to communicate with OData services that support CRUD (Create, Read, Update, Delete) operations on resources.
