Snowflake SnowPro Core Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q351-Q356):

NEW QUESTION # 351

Which cache type is used to cache data output from SQL queries?

- A. Remote cache
- B. Result cache
- C. Metadata cache
- D. Local file cache

Answer: B

Explanation:

The Result cache is used in Snowflake to cache the data output from SQL queries. This feature is designed to improve performance by storing the results of queries for a period of time. When the same or similar query is executed again, Snowflake can retrieve the result from this cache instead of re-computing the result, which saves time and computational resources.

NEW QUESTION # 352

What role is required to use Partner Connect?

- A. SECURITYADMIN
- B. ACCOUNTADMIN
- C. SYSADMIN
- D. ORGADMIN

Answer: B

Explanation:

To use Partner Connect, the ACCOUNTADMIN role is required. Partner Connect allows account administrators to easily create trial accounts with selected Snowflake business partners and integrate these accounts with Snowflake.

NEW QUESTION # 353

What information is found within the Statistic output in the Query Profile Overview?

- A. Table pruning
- B. Operator tree
- C. Nodes by execution time
- D. Most expensive nodes

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 354

Snowflake users can create a resource monitor at which levels? (Select TWO).

- A. Pipe level
- B. Account level
- C. Cloud services level
- D. Virtual warehouse level
- E. User level

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

Resource monitors in Snowflake are tools used to track and control the consumption of compute resources, ensuring that usage stays within defined limits. These monitors can be created at the account level, allowing administrators to set overall resource consumption limits for the entire Snowflake account. Additionally, resource monitors can be set at the virtual warehouse level, enabling more granular control over the resources consumed by individual warehouses. This dual-level capability allows organizations to manage their Snowflake usage efficiently, preventing unexpected costs and optimizing performance.
