An engineer is configuring toll fraud prevention on a Cisco Unity Connection system. The Unity Connection system is integrated with two phone systems each with its own trunk access code. Which configuration blocks attempts to bypass the restriction table by dialing trunk access codes?

- A. Restrict the numbers that can be used for system transfers
- B. Add restriction table patterns to match applicable trunk access codes for both phone system integrations
- C. Set up all restriction tables to block calls to the international operator
- D. Set up restriction tables to block all calls to international numbers.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Toll fraud prevention on Cisco Unity Connection often involves restriction tables, which define patterns of phone numbers that are allowed or disallowed. To prevent users from dialing out using trunk access codes and potentially making unauthorized long-distance calls, here's the logic:
