dbt Labs dbt Analytics Engineering Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q46-Q51):

NEW QUESTION # 46

(Multiple Select)

- A. Integrating dbt's logging with your existing monitoring and alerting platforms.
- B. Require thorough code reviews with a focus on testability before deploying model changes to production.
- C. Implement custom metrics tracking the duration and resource usage of individual dbt models.
- D. Using dbt Cloud's built-in job monitoring and notification features, if applicable.

Answer: A,C,D

Explanation:

These provide active monitoring of your dbt production environment. D is a good practice, but not about real-time observability

NEW QUESTION # 47

You need to grant readonly access to a new stakeholder on a specific dbt model's output. What factors should influence your approach?

- A. Whether you wish to provide direct table access or a view-based interface.
- B. If this is a one-time need, or something requiring scalable permission management.
- C. The default materialized setting defined for models in your dbt_project.yml file.
- D. The database technology and its permissions model.

Answer: A,B,D

Explanation:

Each of these shapes the specific implementation-A impacts how you'll write the GRANT. B is about a layer of control. C is about ad-hoc vs. integrated security.

NEW QUESTION # 48

(Multiple Select)

- A. Enable email notifications on both job success and failure.
- B. Consider a CI/CD process that deploys new model changes to a pre-production environment for validation first.
- C. Run dbt tests automatically as part of the job.
- D. Schedule the job to run less frequently to avoid overloading the data warehouse.

Answer: A,B,C

Explanation:

A provides timely alerts. B ensures data quality before dashboards are updated. C adds a layer of safety before affecting critical systems. D sacrifices data freshness for reduced load.

NEW QUESTION # 49

dbt Model Snippet:SQL

- A. There's a custom macro in use that dynamically changes schemas.
- B. Your sources.yml file is not configured correctly-

- C. The stg_orders model uses a schema config in its own model SQL
- D. Your dbt_project.yml file has a model-level schema override.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Model-level schema configurations override other settings. Check your project file for this model. The others are possible but less common patterns

NEW QUESTION # 50

You're building tests for a dbt model that performs a join across multiple large datasets. You notice performance issues - tests are taking a very long time to run. What might be optimization strategies?

- A. Create snapshots of the source tables and test on those snapshots instead.
- B. Refactor model SQL to use incremental logic to avoid full table scans.
- C. Focus on tests that can validate a subset of the data rather than the entire dataset.
- D. Accept that tests on complex models will always be slow.

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

B and C target reducing the test's workload with sampling or optimizing the model itself. A might help under specific circumstances, but not always. D is a defeatist approach!

.....
