NO.1 A depressed client is seen at the mental health center for follow-up after an attempted suicide 1 week ago. She has taken phenelzine sulfate (Nardil), a monoamine oxidase (MAO) inhibitor, for 7 straight days. She states that she is not feeling any better. The nurse explains that the drug must accumulate to an effective level before symptoms are totally relieved. Symptom relief is expected to occur within:

- A. 10 days
- B. 2-4 weeks
- C. 2 months D. 3 months

Answer: B

Explanation:

- (A) This answer is incorrect. It can take up to 1 month for therapeutic effect of the medication.
- (B) This answer is correct. Because MAO inhibitors are slow to act, it takes 2-4 weeks before improvement of symptoms is noted.
- (C) This answer is incorrect. It can take up to 1 month for therapeutic effect of the medication. (D) This answer is incorrect. Therapeutic effects of the medication are noted within 1 month of drug therapy.

NO.2 Cystic fibrosis is transmitted as an autosomal recessive trait. This means that:

NCLEX National Council Licensure Examination(NCLEX-RN) Sample Questions (Q615-Q620):

NEW QUESTION # 615

A client reports to the nurse that the voices are practically nonstop and that he needs to leave the hospital immediately to find his girlfriend and kill her. The best verbal response to the client by the nurse at this time is:

- A. "We will have to put you in seclusion and restraints for a while. You could hurt someone with thoughts like that."
- B. "Just don't pay attention to the voices. They'll go away after some medication."
- C. "I understand that the voices are real to you, but I want you to know I don't hear them. They are a symptom of your illness."
- D. "You can't leave here. This unit is locked and the doctor has not ordered your discharge."

Answer: C

Explanation:

(A) This response validates the client's experience and presents reality to him. (B) This nontherapeutic response minimizes and dismisses the client's verbalized experience. (C) This response can be interpreted by a paranoid client as a threat, thereby increasing the client's potential for violence and loss of control. (D) This response is also threatening. The client's behavior does not call for restraints because he has not lost control or hurt anyone. If seclusion or restraints were indicated, the nurse should never confront the client alone.

NEW QUESTION # 616

A 74-year-old female client is 3 days postoperative. She has an indwelling catheter and has been progressing well. While the nurse is in the room, the client states, "Oh dear, I feel like I have to urinate again!" Which of the following is the most appropriate initial nursing response?

- A. Assure her that this is most likely the result of bladder spasms.
- B. Ask her if she has felt this way before.
- C. Instruct her to do Kegel exercises to diminish the urge to void.
- D. Check the collection bag and tubing to verify that the catheter is draining properly.

Answer: D

Explanation:

(A) Although this may be an appropriate response, the initial response would be to assure the patency of the catheter. (B) The most frequent reason for an urge to void with an indwelling catheter is blocked tubing. This response would be the best initial response. (C) Kegel exercises while a retention catheter is in place would not help to prevent a voiding urge and could irritate the urethral sphincter. (D) Though the nurse would want to ascertain whether the client has felt the same urge to void before, the initial response should be to assure the patency of the catheter.

NEW QUESTION # 617

With a geriatric client, the nurse should also assess whether he has been obtaining a yearly vaccination against influenza. Why is this assessment important?

- A. Older clients have less effective immune systems.
- B. Influenza is growing in our society.
- C. Older clients have more exposure to the causative agents.
- D. Older clients generally are sicker than others when stricken with flu.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

(A) Although influenza is common, the elderly are more at risk because of decreased effectiveness of their immune system, not because the incidence is increasing. (B) Older clients have the same degree of illness when stricken as other populations. (C) As people age, their immune system becomes less effective, increasing their risk for influenza. (D) Older clients have no more exposure to the causative agents than do school-age children, for example.

NEW QUESTION # 618

Following TURP, which of the following instructions would be appropriate to prevent or alleviate anxiety concerning the client's sexual functioning?

- A. "You may resume sexual intercourse in 2 weeks."
- B. "Check with your doctor about resuming sexual activity."
- C. "Many men experience impotence following TURP."
- D. "A transurethral resection does not usually cause impotence."

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

(A) Sexual activity should be delayed until cleared by the client's physician. (B) Although many men experience retrograde ejaculation following prostate surgery, potency is seldom affected. (C) Although the client may experience retrograde ejaculation, it will not limit his ability to engage in sexual intercourse. (D) Although the client should obtain clearance from his physician before resuming sexual activity, this statement does not give the client any information or reassurance about future sexual activity or potency that could decrease his anxiety.

NEW QUESTION # 619

A 10-year-old boy has been diagnosed with Legg-Calve Perthes disease. Which of the client's responses would indicate compliance during initial therapy?

- A. Walking short distances 3 times/day
- B. Drinking large amounts of milk
- C. Putting self on weight reduction diet
- D. Not bearing weight on affected extremity

Answer: D

Explanation:

(A) This condition causes aseptic necrosis of the head of the femur in the acetabulum. Drinking large quantities of milk at this time cannot hasten recovery. (B) The aim of treatment is to keep the head of the femur in the acetabulum. Non-weight-bearing is essential. Activity causes microfractures of the epiphysis. (C) In addition to non-weightbearing, clients are often placed on bedrest, which helps to reduce inflammation. Later, active motion is encouraged. (D) Weight is not generally an issue with this disease. Slipped femoral capital epiphysis, which is most frequently observed in obese pubescent children, usually requires a weight reduction diet.
