Network Appliance Implementation Engineer - Data Protection Exam Sample Questions (Q71-Q76):

NEW QUESTION # 71

A ransomware attack has compromised all files on a CIFS share. The volume had a retention policy of five daily Snapshot copies, but unfortunately, no Snapshot copies were available. It was confirmed that the cybercriminal accessed only the share and did not gain access to the NetApp ONTAP cluster.

What command should be executed to prevent the quick restore strategy from being compromised?

- A. security multi-admin-verify modify -enabled true
- B. volume modify -snapdir-access false
- C. volume autosize -autogrow disable
- D. volume snapshot -autodelete disabled

Answer: B

Explanation:

Setting snapdir-access to false prevents users accessing the CIFS/NFS share from viewing or deleting Snapshot copies via the .snapshot directory. This secures the Snapshot restore mechanism from being exposed or tampered with in case of another attack through file shares.

NEW QUESTION # 72

An administrator has an on-premises NetApp AFF cluster with 300TB of used volume space. 200TB of the volume data is tiered using NetApp BlueXP tiering to Amazon Simple Storage Service (Amazon S3). The administrator is tasked to configure NetApp BlueXP backup and recovery from the AFF cluster to Amazon S3.

When the first backup completes, how much data is copied from on-premises to the cloud?

- A. 200TB
- B. 100TB
- C. 300TB
- D. 500TB

Answer: B

Explanation:

NetApp BlueXP backup and recovery backs up only the data that resides on-premises. In this scenario:

- * Total used volume space: 300TB
- * Already tiered to S3 using BlueXP tiering: 200TB
- * Remaining local (hot) data: 100TB

Only this 100TB of local data will be copied during the first backup, as tiered data is not re-copied by BlueXP backup and recovery.
