NEW QUESTION # 228

Which major functional modules are included in aSmart Water Conservancy IOC?

- A. Situation awareness
- B. Linked command
- C. Decision analysis

Answer: A,B,C

Explanation:

A Smart Water IOC normally includes situation awareness (real-time monitoring), decision analysis (big-data & model-based decision support), and linked command (cross-department collaboration and emergency response).

NEW QUESTION # 229

A business object is the "host" of a business domain, truly and accurately reflecting the business. It is the bridge between business staff and between business and IT staff. The principles for identifying business objects include which of the following?

- A. It has unique identity-identification information
- B. It is usually master data or transaction data, with concrete instances
- C. It is relatively independent and described by attributes
- D. It is an indispensable "person-event-thing-place" in domain operations and management

Answer: A,B,C,D

Explanation:

Business objects should be essential domain entities (A), have unique IDs (B), be independent with attribute descriptions (C), and correspond to real master or transactional instances in practice (D).

NEW QUESTION # 230

Which components are included in the Government Service Business Middle Platform?

- A. Process Center
- B. Case & Collaborative-Dispatch Center
- C. Certificate & License Center
- D. Item (Service) Center
- E. Form Center

Answer: A,B,C,D,E

Explanation:

The business middle platform for government services is designed around full-process standardization and integration. According to national government-service platform standards, the Item Center manages the catalog of service items; the Form Center unifies form templates; the Certificate Center supports generation and sharing of e-certificates; the Process Center defines cross-department approval flows; and the Case & Dispatch Center coordinates task assignment and progress monitoring. Together these modules form the core capabilities of the business middle platform.

NEW QUESTION # 231

Which statement about data architecture is correct?

- A. It cannot carry business data requirements
- B. It integrates business objects and logical entities to link business needs with IT planning
- C. It cannot guide IT planning
- D. It cannot abstract business objects and data entities

Answer: B

Explanation:

Data architecture bridges business and IT by abstracting business objects and logical data entities, then driving IT planning design.
