Salesforce Certified Sales Cloud Consultant Sample Questions (Q87-Q92):

NEW QUESTION # 87

Annual sales numbers change depending on renewal periods and new products. Sales managers at Universal Containers (UC) want to emphasize the importance of customer retention when prioritizing the pipeline and customer engagement for the sales team. Which metric should the consultant recommend to help UC emphasize the importance of customer retention to the overall business strategy?

- A. Customer Lifetime Value (CLV)
- B. Total Pipeline Value

- C. Annual Contract Value (ACV)

Answer: A

Explanation:

Customer Lifetime Value (CLV) measures the total value a customer brings over the entire duration of their relationship with the company. Emphasizing CLV helps sales teams focus on customer retention and long-term relationship value, which aligns with Universal Containers' goal of prioritizing customer retention. By tracking CLV, sales managers can guide reps to prioritize engagement with high-value customers to boost long-term revenue.

Annual Contract Value (ACV) and Total Pipeline Value focus more on short-term gains, which might not align as directly with customer retention and long-term strategy.

- C. Create a plan for implementation, drive awareness with the sales team, design training and coaching programs, update and document workflows, and measure success.

Answer: C

To ensure a smooth rollout of an updated sales process, Salesforce best practices recommend a structured approach that includes planning, awareness, training, and continuous measurement.
