Which type of service relationship typically focuses on support and efficiency through standardized services?

- A. Partner relationship
- B. Basic relationship
- C. Collaborative relationship
- D. Cooperative relationship

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 111

What does ITIL emphasize as a key difference between Value stream mapping' and Value stream management?

- A. Mapping focuses on cost control, while management focuses on risk avoidance
- B. Mapping applies to services, while management applies to products
- C. Mapping is used only for reporting, while management is used only for auditing
- D. Mapping identifies how value flows, while management ensures the value stream performs effectively over time

Answer: D

Explanation:

ITIL emphasizes that value stream mapping identifies and visualizes how value flows, while value stream management ensures that the value stream performs effectively over time. That is why option A is correct. Mapping is a diagnostic and analytical activity. It helps organizations understand the current flow of work, information, handoffs, delays, bottlenecks, and opportunities for improvement. Management is broader and continuous. It involves monitoring performance, setting measures, coordinating improvements, adapting to changes, and maintaining the health of the value stream over time. Mapping is therefore one important tool within the larger discipline of management.

NEW QUESTION # 112

Why is it important to seek feedback before, during, and after each iteration?

- A. To ensure the project plan remains fixed and unchanged throughout development
- B. To ensure that each iteration is aligned with changing circumstances
- C. To document all activities in detail before starting the next iteration
- D. To allow the team to follow the original design without interruption

Answer: B

Explanation:

Seeking feedback before, during, and after each iteration ensures that the work remains aligned with evolving needs, priorities, and environmental changes, enabling timely adjustments and continuous improvement.

NEW QUESTION # 113

How do ITIL practice guides benefit organizations managing digital products and services?

- A. By prescribing mandatory tools and technologies for service management
- B. By separating product management guidance from service management guidance
- C. By defining a fixed maturity level that organizations must achieve
- D. By supporting organizations in developing product and service management capabilities

Answer: D

Explanation:

ITIL practice guides benefit organizations by supporting the development of product and service management capabilities, so option C is correct. The guides provide practical, structured guidance for specific management areas and help organizations understand how to perform work effectively in context. They do not prescribe one mandatory technology stack or force all organizations into a single maturity target. ITIL also does not separate product and service management as isolated disciplines; instead, it integrates them through the lifecycle model and the value system. The practice guides help teams understand workflows, roles, measures, interfaces with other practices, and considerations across the Four Dimensions. This makes them useful for building real organizational capability, not just passing exams. Their value lies in practical adaptation and capability improvement across a wide range of management areas.
