Huawei HCSA-Presales-Storage V4.0 Sample Questions (Q152-Q157):

NEW QUESTION # 152
Which of the following are features of OceanStor Pacific HPDA solution? (Choose all that apply.)

- A. Lossless multi-protocol interworking
- B. Supporting multiple performance models concurrently
- C. One storage system meeting requirements of HPC+AI all service flows
- D. Interconnection with diversified computing power

Answer: A,B,C,D

Explanation:
The OceanStor Pacific HPDA solution features lossless multi-protocol interworking, interconnection with diversified computing power, the ability to meet both HPC and AI service flow requirements with one storage system, and support for multiple performance models concurrently. These features deliver flexibility, high performance, and broad applicability for complex data and computing environments.

NEW QUESTION # 153
OceanStor Dorado NAS delivers high performance. Which of the following scenarios does OceanStor Dorado NAS apply to? (Choose all that apply.)

- A. EDA simulation
- B. Metropolitan area network (MAN) centralized video security
- C. Financial data exchange platforms
- D. Carrier CDRs

Answer: A,C

Explanation:
OceanStor Dorado NAS primarily targets high-performance scenarios but is best suited for EDA simulation and financial data exchange platforms. While it can support video security and Carrier CDRs, these are not its primary focus areas, as they typically require different storage optimizations.
OceanStor Dorado NAS excels in high-performance, low-latency applications such as EDA simulations and financial data exchange platforms. Although it may support video security and CDRs, these applications often rely more on dedicated or specialized storage solutions optimized for streaming and sequential data access.

NEW QUESTION # 154
Which advantages does the Dorado V3 offer in the VDI scenario?

- A. No desktop boot/login storms
- B. Faster response to desktop requests
- C. Larger storage capacity
- D. Support for more virtual desktops

Answer: A,B,C,D

NEW QUESTION # 155
When user A modifies a file in the NAS system, which of the following operations can user B perform on the file?

- A. File modification
- B. File deletion

- C. File renaming
- D. File reading

Answer: D

Explanation:
In Huawei OceanStor NAS systems, data consistency and integrity are maintained through a mechanism known as File Locking. When User A opens a file for modification (a write operation), the storage system applies a "Write Lock" or an "Exclusive Lock" to that specific file. This lock prevents other users from performing any actions that would alter the file's metadata or content, as these concurrent changes would lead to data corruption or "lost updates".
Consequently, File deletion (Option A), File modification (Option C), and File renaming (Option D) are all blocked because they require write-level access or changes to the file system's directory structure that conflict with the active lock held by User A. However, File reading (Option B) is generally permitted unless User A has specifically requested an exclusive lock that bars all access. In standard CIFS/SMB and NFS configurations used by Huawei, multiple users can read a file while one user is writing, ensuring that information remains accessible without compromising the integrity of the file being updated.

NEW QUESTION # 156
Which of the following data applications is HDFS applicable to? (Choose all that apply.)

- A. Applications requiring large capacity
- B. Applications requiring high throughput
- C. Applications requiring small file processing
- D. Applications requiring low-latency random access

Answer: A,B

Explanation:
HDFS is well suited for applications that require high throughput and large capacity, such as big data analytics and batch processing. It is not ideal for low-latency random access or small file processing due to its architecture and optimization for large sequential data reads and writes.

NEW QUESTION # 157
