NEW QUESTION # 37

A governance or management objective always relates to:

- A. a single process.
- B. a single related component.
- C. a group of related processes.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 38

An enterprise that specializes in software development is designing a new IT governance system as part of a transition from traditional waterfall to a more agile approach. Which step in the design phase would this transition impact the MOST?

- A. Compliance requirements
- B. Sourcing model
- C. Implementation method

Answer: C

Explanation:

The transition from traditional waterfall to a more agile approach would impact the implementation method step in the design phase the most. The implementation method is the approach or strategy that is used to put the IT governance system into practice. The design phase is the stage in the IT governance life cycle that involves customizing and tailoring the IT governance system to the specific needs and context of the enterprise. The transition from traditional waterfall to a more agile approach would affect the implementation method step in the design phase because it would require a different way of planning, executing, monitoring, and controlling the IT governance system, as well as a different set of skills, tools, techniques, and practices.
