IIBA Entry Certificate in Business Analysis (ECBA) Sample Questions (Q105-Q110):

NEW QUESTION # 105

The likelihood that the requirement will change because it requires further analysis is termed as:

- A. dependency.
- B. stability.
- C. benefit.
- D. penalty.

Answer: B

Explanation:

In the context of business analysis, the term "stability" refers to the likelihood that a requirement will change due to the need for further analysis or because stakeholders have not reached a consensus. Stability is a critical attribute to assess as it impacts the prioritization, planning, and management of requirements. Requirements with low stability may require additional attention, analysis, or engagement with stakeholders to clarify, refine, and agree upon the needs to ensure they are well-understood and stable enough to be implemented effectively without significant changes in the future.

NEW QUESTION # 106

Which of the following approaches is used to determine how business analysis data will be packaged and communicated to stakeholders?

- A. Governance Approach
- B. Business Analysis Approach
- C. Stakeholder Engagement Approach
- D. Information Management Approach

Answer: D

Explanation:

The Information Management Approach is used to determine how business analysis information will be structured, stored, and maintained. It outlines the processes for managing the flow of information between stakeholders and ensures that the information is communicated in a clear, concise, and accessible manner. This approach is essential for ensuring that stakeholders have the right information at the right time to make informed decisions.

NEW QUESTION # 107

Which of the following characteristics verifies that a requirement has been fulfilled?

- A. Feasible
- B. Atomic
- C. Concise
- D. Testable

Answer: D

Explanation:

A requirement is verified as fulfilled if it is 'testable.' This means that the requirement must be defined in such a way that it can be measured or tested to ensure it meets the criteria set forth. A testable requirement allows for the creation of test cases that can objectively determine whether the requirement has been met. Reference: The concept of a 'testable' requirement is a key quality characteristic in business analysis, as outlined in the Business Analysis Body of Knowledge (BABOK) guide1.

NEW QUESTION # 108

A technique that is used to elicit information by viewing and understanding activities and their context is known as:

- A. review.
- B. workshop.
- C. brainstorming.
- D. observation.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Observation is a technique used in business analysis to elicit information by viewing and understanding activities in their context. It involves watching how stakeholders perform tasks, interact with systems, and cope with problems in their natural work environment. This technique helps business analysts gain insights into the needs, preferences, challenges, and goals of users and stakeholders, especially in situations where they may not be able to articulate their requirements clearly.

References: The information is verified as per the Business Analysis Learning documents and resources, which discuss various elicitation techniques including observation

NEW QUESTION # 109

A solution is considered to be successful when the:

- A. stakeholders' expectations are met.
- B. organization is ready to accept it.
- C. performance evaluation is positive.
- D. business need is satisfied.

Answer: D

Explanation:

A solution is considered successful when it satisfies the business need it was intended to address. This means that the solution has effectively resolved the problem or fulfilled the requirement that prompted its development. While meeting stakeholders' expectations, ensuring the organization is ready to accept the solution, and having a positive performance evaluation are all important, they are secondary to the primary goal of meeting the business need.
