ASIS Physical Security Professional Exam Sample Questions (Q69-Q74):

NEW QUESTION # 69

Employers must have a program to communicate more details on all hazards, including a _____ that must be available for each chemical at the work site.

- A. Procurement Asset Safety Program
- B. Product stability program
- C. Material Safety Data Sheet
- D. Asset standard Act

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 70

The ongoing task of security management is to identify potential areas of loss and to develop and install appropriate security countermeasures, this process is called _____.

- A. Risk management
- B. Business Evaluation
- C. Risk Analysis
- D. Security Reimbursement

Answer: A

Explanation:

Risk management is the continuous and proactive process of identifying areas where a business may suffer losses, assessing the likelihood and potential impact of those losses, and implementing security countermeasures to minimize or eliminate them. This function ensures that organizational assets-people, property, and information-are protected against threats such as theft, sabotage, natural disasters, and operational failures.

NEW QUESTION # 71

Which of the following sensor types would be least effective in detecting unauthorized access to a safe?

- A. Capacitance proximity
- B. Infrared beam
- C. Microwave
- D. Fiberoptic cable

Answer: B

Explanation:

Infrared beam sensors are typically used to detect movement across open areas and are line-of-sight devices.

They are not well-suited for enclosed or small, solid objects like safes. They can be easily bypassed or may not be triggered when tampering with a safe that doesn't break the beam.

A, B, and D are more effective around physical objects:

Capacitance can detect touch or presence.

Microwave can detect motion or disturbance.

Fiber optic cable can detect physical interaction or tampering.

NEW QUESTION # 72

In terms of security and safety, a high-rise structure is generally considered to be a building that:

- A. Is taller than the maximum reach of available firefighting equipment
- B. Is greater than twelve stories in height
- C. Has two or more emergency exit stairwells
- D. Is greater than 100 feet in height

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive Detailed Explanation:

A building is considered a high-rise when its height exceeds the maximum reach of fire department equipment (typically 75-100 feet). This classification impacts safety regulations, evacuation strategies, and fire protection system requirements.

C and D are rough guidelines, but B is the technical definition used in most codes.

A describes a design feature, not a defining criterion.
