NEW QUESTION # 78
Which of the following cannot be marked as evidence in a container?

- A. Comment
- B. Action result
- C. Note
- D. Artifact

Answer: A

Explanation:
In Splunk SOAR, the following elements can be marked as evidence within a container: action results, artifacts, and notes. These are crucial elements that contribute directly to incident analysis and can be selected as evidence to support investigation outcomes or legal proceedings.
However, comments cannot be marked as evidence. Comments are usually informal and meant for communication between users, providing context or updates but not serving as formal evidence within the system. Action results, artifacts, and notes, on the other hand, contain critical data related to the incident that could be useful for audit and investigative purposes, making them eligible to be marked as evidence.

NEW QUESTION # 79
Which of the following is an advantage of using the Visual Playbook Editor?

- A. Easier playbook maintenance.
- B. The Visual Playbook Editor is the only way to generate user prompts.
- C. Supports Python or Javascript.
- D. Eliminates any need to use Python code.

Answer: A

Explanation:
Visual Playbook Editor is a feature of Splunk SOAR that allows you to create, edit, and implement automated playbooks using visual building blocks and execution flow lanes, without having to write code. The Visual Playbook Editor automatically generates the code for you, which you can view and edit in the Code Editor if needed. The Visual Playbook Editor also supports Python and Javascript as scripting languages for custom code blocks. One of the advantages of using the Visual Playbook Editor is that it makes playbook maintenance easier, as you can quickly modify, test, and debug your playbooks using the graphical interface. Therefore, option D is the correct answer, as it states an advantage of using the Visual Playbook Editor. Option A is incorrect, because using the Visual Playbook Editor does not eliminate the need to use Python code, but rather simplifies the process of creating and editing code. You can still add custom Python code to your playbooks using the custom function block or the Code Editor. Option B is incorrect, because the Visual Playbook Editor is not the only way to generate user prompts, but rather one of the ways. You can also generate user prompts using the classic playbook editor or the Code Editor. Option C is incorrect, because supporting Python or Javascript is not an advantage of using the Visual Playbook Editor, but rather a feature of Splunk SOAR in general. You can use

Python or Javascript in any of the playbook editors, not just the Visual Playbook Editor.

NEW QUESTION # 80
Which Phantom VPE Nock S used to add information to custom lists?

- A. Filter blocks
- B. Action blocks
- C. API blocks
- D. Decision blocks

Answer: C

Explanation:
Filter blocks are used to add information to custom lists in Phantom VPE. Filter blocks allow the user to specify a list name and a filter expression to select the data to be added to the list. Action blocks are used to execute app actions, API blocks are used to make REST API calls, and decision blocks are used to evaluate conditions and branch the playbook execution. In the Phantom Visual Playbook Editor (VPE), an API block is used to interact with various external APIs, including custom lists within Phantom. Custom lists are key-value stores that can be used to maintain state, aggregate data, or track information across multiple playbook runs. API blocks allow the playbook to make GET, POST, PUT, and DELETE requests to these lists, facilitating the addition, retrieval, update, or removal of information. This makes API blocks a versatile tool in managing custom list data within playbooks.
