Answer: B,D

NEW QUESTION #48

An application has a web page where users can upload and view images. The application uses a Content Security Policy (CSP) to prevent cross-site scripting attacks by restricting the sources of scripts and images that the browser can load. The CSP has the following directives: default-src 'self'; script-src 'self'https://cdn.

example.com; img-src 'self' data: blob:. What happens if a user tries to upload and view an image fromhttps://malicious.comon the web page?

- A. The browser blocks the image from loading and displays an error message.
- B. The browser loads and displays the image without any issues.
- C. The browser ignores the CSP and loads the image from any source.
- D. The browser loads the image but does not display it on the web page.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

Pega's security features, as taught in Pega Academy's Security Missionand the Pega Certified Lead System Architect Study Guide, include Content Security Policies (CSP) to mitigate cross-site scripting (XSS) by restricting resource sources. The CSP directives define allowed sources for images, scripts, and other content.

- * Option A (Correct): The CSP directive img-src 'self' data: blob: restricts image sources to the application's domain, data URIs, and blobs. An image from https://malicious.com is not permitted, so the browser blocks it and may display an error in the console, as documented in the Content Security Policysection of Pega Community.
- * Option B (Incorrect): The browser does not load blocked images; it rejects them outright based on the CSP, per the Web Security module.
- * Option C (Incorrect): The browser enforces the CSP and does not ignore it, as CSP is a mandatory security mechanism, per the Security Designguidelines.
- * Option D (Incorrect): The image from https://malicious.com is not an allowed source, so it will not load or display, as noted in the CSP Configuration module.

Pega Academy:Security Mission(covers CSP and XSS prevention).

□PEGACPLSA23V1 Exam Experience

Pega Community: Content Security Policy (details on directive enforcement).

Pega Certified Lead System Architect Study Guide (v23): Section on Security Design (emphasizes CSP for web security).
