Which of the following is NOT a responsibility of the organization's board of directors?

- A. Directing employees to execute business activities
- B. Serving as the intermediaries between shareholders and management
- C. Assessing the strategy and underlying purpose of management's decisions and actions
- D. Acting as guardians of the organization's resources and assets

Answer: A

Explanation:

Responsibilities of the Board of Directors:

* The board is primarily responsible for oversight, governance, and ensuring the organization operates in the best interest of stakeholders. Key responsibilities include:

* Acting as intermediaries between shareholders and management.

* Safeguarding resources and assets.

* Assessing management's strategies and decisions.

Why C is Correct:

* Directing employees is a management responsibility, not a board function. The board focuses on oversight rather than operational execution.

* ACFE governance principles emphasize the separation of oversight and operational roles.

NEW QUESTION # 275

According to ACFE research, which of the following is TRUE regarding the three major categories of occupational fraud?

- A. Financial statement fraud schemes are the most common category of occupational fraud.
- B. Corruption schemes are the costliest category of occupational fraud.

- C. Asset misappropriation schemes are the most common category of occupational fraud.
- D. Identity theft is both the most common and costliest category of occupational fraud.

Answer: C

Explanation:

ACFE research indicates that asset misappropriation schemes, such as theft of cash or inventory, are the most common type of occupational fraud. While they are frequent, they typically result in lower financial losses compared to corruption or financial statement fraud, which are less common but can cause greater financial damage.

NEW QUESTION # 276

In the context of fraud examination, integrity requires all of the following EXCEPT:

- A. Avoidance of differences of opinion

- C. An ability to analyze situations where no professional rules are specifically applicable and determine right from wrong
- D. Subordination of desires for personal gain to the interests of clients, employers, and the public

Answer: A

Explanation:

* Integrity in Fraud Examination:

* Why Option D is Incorrect:

* Avoiding differences of opinion contradicts the need for professional skepticism and robust analysis in fraud examination.

* Conclusion: Integrity does not require the avoidance of differences of opinion, making D the correct answer.

NEW QUESTION # 277

Which of the following is NOT one of the three elements that have the most influence on crime according to the routine activities theory?

- A. The availability of suitable targets
- B. The presence of motivated offenders
- C. The absence of capable guardians
- D. The lack of societal ethics

Answer: D

Explanation:

In the manual's discussion of routine activities theory, three important elements are identified as influencing crime: the availability of suitable targets, the absence of capable guardians, and the presence of motivated offenders. This framework assumes that opportunities for crime arise when these three conditions come together. The theory does not list a lack of societal ethics as one of its three core elements. While ethics can matter broadly in criminology and organizational behavior, the routine activities approach is focused more narrowly on the interaction between offenders, targets, and guardianship. Because the manual expressly names only those three elements, the option referring to a lack of societal ethics is the one that does not belong. Therefore, option D is the correct answer under the Fraud Prevention and Deterrence material.
