CompTIA Advanced Security Practitioner (CASP+) Exam Sample Questions (Q591-Q596):

NEW QUESTION # 591
A company is rewriting a vulnerable application and adding the mprotect() system call in multiple parts of the application's code that was being leveraged by a recent exploitation tool. Which of the following should be enabled to ensure the application can leverage the new system call against similar attacks in the future?

- A. NX bit
- B. TPM
- C. Secure boot
- D. HSM

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 592
Joe an application security engineer is performing an audit of an environmental control application.
He has implemented a robust SDLC process and is reviewing API calls available to the application.
During the review, Joe finds the following in a log file.

POST /API/Data/Username=Jim&Password=Rustle&PowerKW&Efficiency
POST /API/Data/Username=John&Password=Doe&Uptime&Temperature
POST /API/Data/Username=OTManager&Password=IgudPW&Sector5ESensor2=Off&Sector5ESensor2Status

Which of the following would BEST mitigate the issue Joe has found?

- A. Deploy a WAF in front of the API and implement rate limiting
- B. Perform authentication via a secure channel
- C. Verify the API uses HTTP GET instead of POST
- D. Ensure the API uses SNMPv1.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 593
A threat analyst notices the following URL while going through the HTTP logs.

Which of the following attack types is the threat analyst seeing?

- A. SQL injection
- B. Session hijacking
- C. XSS
- D. CSRF

Answer: C

Explanation:
XSS stands for cross-site scripting, which is a type of attack that injects malicious code into a web page that is then executed by the browser of a victim. The URL in the question contains a script tag that tries to execute a JavaScript code from an external source, which is a sign of XSS. Verified References: https://www.comptia.

NEW QUESTION # 594
A security administrator is trying to securely provide public access to specific data from a web application. Clients who want to access the application will be required to:
* Only allow the POST and GET options.
* Transmit all data secured with TLS 1.2 or greater.
* Use specific URLs to access each type of data that is requested.
* Authenticate with a bearer token.
Which of the following should the security administrator recommend to meet these requirements?

- A. Web application firewall
- B. Reverse proxy
- C. Application load balancer
- D. API gateway

Answer: D

Explanation:
An API gateway is the best solution to meet the specified requirements for securely providing public access to specific data. An API gateway allows the administrator to control HTTP methods like POST and GET, ensure secure transmission via TLS 1.2 or greater, and enforce authentication using bearer tokens. It also allows access control by specifying URLs for different types of data. API gateways centralize security and traffic management for APIs, making them ideal for this type of secure access scenario. CASP+ emphasizes the importance of API gateways in managing and securing web application interfaces.
