NEW QUESTION # 60

When segregating the duties for user and role maintenance, which of the following should be part of a decentralized treble control strategy for a production system? Note: There are 3 correct answers to this question.

- A. One user administrator per production system
- B. One authorization profile administrator
- C. One user administrator per application area in the production system
- D. One decentralized role administrator
- E. One authorization data administrator

Answer: A,D,E

Explanation:

A decentralized treble control strategy for user and role maintenance in a production system involves distributing responsibilities to ensure segregation of duties. One user administrator per production system is recommended to manage user master records, ensuring centralized control over user creation and assignment within each system. One authorization data administrator is responsible for maintaining authorization objects and values within roles, ensuring that permissions are correctly defined. One decentralized role administrator handles role creation and assignment, allowing flexibility across different business units or applications while maintaining oversight. Having one user administrator per application area (option A) is too granular and risks inconsistency in a production system. A single authorization profile administrator (option C) is not ideal, as profile generation is typically automated within PFCG, and the role is less distinct in a decentralized strategy.

This treble control approach enhances security by preventing any single individual from controlling all aspects of access, aligning with SAP's best practices for governance and compliance.

NEW QUESTION # 61

In SAP HANA Cloud, who has access to a database object?

- A. The owner and the SAP-owned users
- B. The user DBADMIN and the group owner
- C. The creator and the schema owner
- D. The user SYSTEM and the creator

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 62

What does a status text value of "Old" mean during the maintenance of authorizations for an existing role?

- A. Field values were unchanged and no new authorization was added.
- B. Field values have not been changed.
- C. The field delivered with content was changed but the old value was retained.
- D. Field values were changed as a result of the merge process.

Answer: A

Explanation:

In SAP role maintenance, a status text value of "Old" indicates that the field values for an authorization in an existing role were unchanged and no new authorizations were added. This status appears during PFCG role maintenance when comparing or updating authorizations, showing that the authorization object or field values have not been modified since the last maintenance and no additional permissions have been included. It reflects a stable state, ensuring that the role's existing permissions remain intact without unintended changes.

Option A is less precise, as it does not address the absence of new authorizations. Option B describes a scenario where changes were made but reverted, which is not "Old." Option C relates to merged authorizations, not the "Old" status. The "Old" status helps administrators confirm that no updates were applied, supporting consistent role management and preventing accidental modifications during maintenance in SAP systems.
