IIA Essentials of Internal Auditing Sample Questions (Q86-Q91):

NEW QUESTION # 86

During the closing meeting of a procurement audit, the business manager disagrees with the observation presented by the engagement supervisor and accuses the team of not understanding the procurement objectives. The engagement supervisor blames the manager for impeding the audit. What skillset should the chief audit executive utilize to manage this situation?

- A. The ability to foresee issues
- B. The ability to use analytical tools
- C. The ability to negotiate
- D. The ability to manage conflict

Answer: D

Explanation:

The skillset that the chief audit executive should utilize to manage a situation where there is a disagreement and conflict during a closing meeting of a procurement audit is the ability to manage conflict. This skill is crucial to resolve disputes, ensure mutual understanding, and maintain professional relationships, which are key in achieving constructive outcomes from audit engagements. References: IIA guidance on professional skills for internal auditors, which emphasizes conflict management as essential for dealing with disagreements during audits effectively.

NEW QUESTION # 87

A fraud investigation was completed by management, and a proven fraud was communicated to relevant authorities. According to IIA guidance, which of the following roles would be most appropriate for the internal audit activity to undertake after the investigation?

- A. Plan employee sessions and team building strategies for the organization to improve awareness of fraud among employees
- B. Conduct lessons learned sessions to ascertain how the fraud occurred and which controls failed.
- C. Review the investigation and implement any improvements to the process.
- D. Determine why the fraud was not detected earlier and design controls to strengthen early detection.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 88

Which of the following would be considered a primary control to reduce the risk associated with setting up duplicate vendors?

- A. Segregation of duties between setting up vendors and making vendor payments.
- B. Receipt of a signed and approved vendor setup form.
- C. A vendor setup policy and procedure.
- D. System validation and edit checks on vendor identification number

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 89

To identify those components of a telecommunications system that present the greatest risk, an internal auditor should first:

- A. Determine the business purpose of the network.
- B. Map the network software and hardware products into their respective layers.
- C. Review the open systems interconnect network model.
- D. Identify the network operating costs.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 90

Which of the following best describes a consulting engagement rather an assurance engagement?

- A. An internal auditor is assigned to assess whether a proposed new initiative to convert a customer service system would be cost effective.
- B. Bank internal auditors review an activity checklist to determine that the loan officer followed proper procedures.
- C. The chief financial officer asks for the internal auditor's opinion regarding whether the new accounting pronouncements were properly and comprehensively adopted
- D. Senior management asks the internal audit activity to review compliance with customer data security regulations

Answer: A

Explanation:

A consulting engagement, as opposed to an assurance engagement, is characterized by the auditor providing advice and recommendations upon request. In option C, an internal auditor assessing the cost-effectiveness of a new customer service system initiative represents a consulting role where the auditor provides expertise to aid decision-making, rather than verifying compliance or control effectiveness.
