PRAXIS Praxis Business Education: Content Knowledge (5101) Exam Sample Questions (Q17-Q22):

NEW QUESTION # 17

Which of the following actions is most likely to be considered a breach of social responsibility by a company?

- A. Increasing employee productivity by reducing the number of employee hours used for each unit of production
- B. Attempting to maximize profits by reducing overhead
- C. Underbidding competitors for a government contract
- D. Circumventing a zoning board decision that prohibits development of an environmentally sensitive area

Answer: D

Explanation:

Social responsibility involves ethical actions that consider societal and environmental impacts. Circumventing a zoning board decision to develop an environmentally sensitive area violates social responsibility by prioritizing profit over environmental protection. Options A and B (reducing overhead, increasing productivity) are standard business practices, not inherently unethical. Option C (underbidding) is competitive, not necessarily irresponsible. This question aligns with the Business Law category, emphasizing corporate ethics.

NEW QUESTION # 18

An example of a core indicator used for reporting state performance of secondary students to Congress is

- A. median family income
- B. percentage of campus parental involvement
- C. percentage of students considered at risk
- D. student graduation rate

Answer: D

Explanation:

Student graduation rate is a core indicator used to report state performance of secondary students to Congress, particularly under federal education laws like the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) and Perkins Act, reflecting educational outcomes. Option A (median family income) is a demographic factor, not a performance indicator. Option C (at-risk students) and Option D (parental involvement) are relevant but not core indicators for federal reporting. This question aligns with the Professional Business Education category, emphasizing educational metrics.

NEW QUESTION # 19

Research indicates that government warnings can affect buying patterns. A recent federal research report links red-meat consumption to poor health. Another report praises chicken as a healthy meat alternative. If other market conditions remain the same, the price of chicken will probably

- A. increase
- B. decrease
- C. rise, then fall
- D. remain unchanged

Answer: A

Explanation:

Government warnings linking red meat to poor health and praising chicken as a healthier alternative are likely to increase consumer demand for chicken. With other conditions constant, increased demand shifts the demand curve right, raising the equilibrium price of chicken. Option B (decrease) would occur with decreased demand. Option C (unchanged) ignores the demand shift. Option D (rise, then fall) lacks evidence for a subsequent decline. This question aligns with the Economics category, focusing on demand and price dynamics.

NEW QUESTION # 20

In international trade, the practice of dumping refers to

- A. exporting high-quality products at a price equivalent to the cost of production
- B. exporting normal-quality products at a price below the home market cost
- C. exporting low-quality products at a price above the normal value
- D. exporting unwanted products out of the country of origin

Answer: B

Explanation:

Dumping in international trade involves exporting products at a price below their home market cost or production cost, often to gain market share or harm competitors. Option A (unwanted products) is incorrect, as dumping involves normal products. Option C (low-quality, high-price) and Option D (high-quality, cost-price) do not define dumping. This question falls under the Economics category, emphasizing trade practices.

- A. Guarantee of specialized employment
- B. Increased annual salary
- C. Decreased workload
- D. Input into local, state, and national issues

Answer: D

Explanation:

Membership in a professional organization provides opportunities to influence policies and practices at local, state, and national levels through advocacy and networking. Option A (increased salary) is not guaranteed. Option C (decreased workload) is unlikely. Option D (specialized employment) is not a direct benefit. This question falls under the Professional Business Education category, emphasizing professional development.
