EC-COUNCIL EC Council Certified Incident Handler (ECIH v3) Sample Questions (Q139-Q144):

NEW QUESTION # 139
Which of the following terms refers to the personnel that the incident handling and response (IH&R) team must contact to report the incident and obtain the necessary permissions?

- A. Ticketing
- B. Civil litigation
- C. Point of contact
- D. Criminal referral

Answer: C

Explanation:
In the context of incident handling and response (IH&R), the term "Point of contact" refers to individuals or departments within an organization that are designated to be contacted by the IH&R team in case of an incident. These personnel are crucial for the reporting process and for obtaining the necessary permissions to proceed with incident response activities. They serve as the liaison between the incident response team and other parts of the organization, external agencies, or partners involved in the incident response process. The point of contact is responsible for facilitating communication, coordinating actions, and ensuring that the appropriate stakeholders are engaged in the response to an incident. This role is pivotal in ensuring a swift and effective response to security incidents, minimizing damage, and restoring operations.
References:Incident Handler (ECIH v3) courses and study guides typically emphasize the importance of clearly defined roles and responsibilities within the incident response process, including the designation of points of contact.

NEW QUESTION # 140
Mei, a forensic analyst, is analyzing logs from a compromised blog platform. She finds evidence that an attacker posted content using a valid account, and later, users who visited the blog were redirected to a phishing site containing session cookies in the URL. What kind of attack does this best describe?

- A. Directory traversal
- B. Stored XSS
- C. Man-in-the-middle attack
- D. Reflected XSS

Answer: B

Explanation:
The EC-Council Incident Handler (ECIH) curriculum explains that Stored Cross-Site Scripting (Stored XSS) occurs when malicious scripts are permanently stored on a web server (e.g., within blog posts, comments, or database entries). When users access the infected content, the malicious script executes in their browser.
In this scenario, the attacker posted malicious content using a valid account, and subsequent users were redirected to a phishing site containing session cookies in the URL. This indicates that malicious code was embedded and stored within the blog platform, affecting multiple visitors.
Reflected XSS (Option A) requires the victim to click a crafted link and is not persistently stored. Man-in-the- middle (Option B) involves interception of communications. Directory traversal (Option D) involves accessing restricted directories on a server.
ECIH highlights that stored XSS attacks are particularly dangerous because they impact all users who access the compromised content and can lead to session hijacking, credential theft, and redirection to phishing sites.
Therefore, the attack described is Stored XSS.
