NEW QUESTION # 48

What type of backup is used to protect the metadata of the PowerProtect Data Manager?

- A. Catalogue Recovery
- B. Disaster Recovery
- C. Bootstrap Recovery
- D. Bare Metal Recovery

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 49

Which screen resolution must be set up to avoid display issues in the Jobs view in PowerProtect Data Manager?

- A. 1440 x 900
- B. 1920 x 1200
- C. 1920 x 1080
- D. 1024 x 768

Answer: C

Explanation:

The PowerProtect Data Manager user interface is a modern, HTML5-based dashboard designed to provide significant amounts of data at a glance, particularly within the Jobs and Monitoring views.

* UI Optimization: The PPDM Administration Guide specifies that for an optimal experience and to ensure all columns, status icons, and sidebar navigation elements render correctly without overlapping or requiring excessive horizontal scrolling, the recommended resolution is 1920 x 1080.

* Jobs View Complexity: The Jobs view contains multiple columns (Job ID, Status, Progress, Start/End Time, etc.). At lower resolutions, the UI may truncate critical data or wrap text in a way that makes it difficult for administrators to monitor large-scale protection environments effectively.

NEW QUESTION # 52

An Oracle administrator is preparing a RMAN recover script using PowerProtect Data Manager.

What is the default installation location of the DD Boost library file?

- A. $ORACLE_HOME/lib
- B. $RMAN_AGENT/lib
- C. $ORACLE_AGENT_HOME/lib
- D. $RMAN_AGENT_HOME/lib

Answer: D

Explanation:

When protecting Oracle databases with PowerProtect Data Manager, the system utilizes a dedicated RMAN Agent installed on the Oracle server. This agent facilitates the communication between Oracle's Recovery Manager (RMAN) and the PowerProtect DD storage system via the DD Boost protocol.

Installation Path: By default, the PowerProtect Data Manager RMAN agent is installed in the /opt/dpsapps/rmanagent directory on Linux/Unix systems.

The Library File: The DD Boost library file (typically named libddobk.so on Linux or libddobk.dll on Windows) is the interface that RMAN calls to send data to the protection storage.

Environment Variables: In the RMAN script, the SBT_LIBRARY parameter must point to the location of this file. Within the PPDM environment, the directory is referenced using the variable $RMAN_AGENT_HOME/lib.

Ensuring that the RMAN script correctly points to this path is essential for the "SBT_TAPE" device type to initialize correctly and establish a session with the PowerProtect DD.
