ping: comptia.org: Temporary failure in name resolution

64 bytes from 104.18.17.29: icmp_seq=1 ttl=63 time=31.4 ms

Which of the following describes the issue?

- A. A gateway IP address has not been configured on the network interface's configuration file
- B. A DNS has not been configured in the /etc/resolv.conf file
- C. A name server IP address has not been added in the /etc/protocols file
- D. The network interface is disabled

Answer: B

Explanation:

The IP ping works, but DNS resolution fails, indicating that a DNS server is not configured properly in /etc/resolv.conf. That file is responsible for DNS resolution.

NEW QUESTION # 576

A systems administrator is analyzing the data usage on a Linux system. Which of the following commands will display a list of the entire /var contents along with sizes?

- A. df -h /var
- B. lsblk /var
- C. du -ah /var/
- D. ls -ltr /var | sort -n

Answer: C

Explanation:

The du(disk usage) command is used to display the size of files and directories.

du -a /var/- Lists all files and directories under /var along with their sizes.

du -ah /var/- The -h option makes the sizes human-readable (e.g., KB, MB, GB).

NEW QUESTION # 577

A Linux administrator copied a Git repository locally, created a feature branch, and committed some changes to the feature branch. Which of the following Git actions should the Linux administrator use to publish the changes to the main branch of the remote repository?

- A. commit
- B. tag
- C. rebase
- D. push

Answer: D

Explanation:

The push action is used to publish the changes made in a local branch to a remote branch of a Git repository. This action will update the remote branch with the commits made in the local branch and synchronize the two branches. The rebase action is used to reapply commits from one branch onto another branch, creating a linear history of commits. This action does not publish any changes to a remote repository. The tag action is used to create an annotated reference to a specific commit in a Git repository. This action does not publish any changes to a remote repository. The commit action is used to record changes made in the local repository and create a new snapshot of the project state. This action does not publish any changes to a remote repository. - B. Systemctl get-default
- C. systemctl enable postgresql
- D. systemctl mask postgresql

Answer: A
