SAP Certified - Database Administrator - SAP HANA Sample Questions (Q41-Q46):

NEW QUESTION # 41

CHALLENGE 3 - Cloud Modernization Evidence Boundary

The modernization lead wants the SAP HANA Cloud database included in the same readiness status because it is provisioned and has a limited outage analytics dataset. The cloud environment has not completed the startup, monitoring, or recovery evidence package used for active hypercare systems. What is the best response?

- A. Keep cloud modernization evidence separate until cloud-specific administration validation is completed.
- B. Include the cloud database in the same status because provisioning and sample data show progress.
- C. Stop cloud planning until the current hypercare readiness decision is fully completed.
- D. Use the upgraded service reporting system's monitoring record as the SAP HANA Cloud readiness record.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Feedback:

Cloud modernization evidence should remain separate until cloud-specific administration validation is completed. Provisioning and sample data support planning, but they do not equal active hypercare readiness.

NEW QUESTION # 42

A regional diagnostics provider uses SAP HANA for laboratory operations analytics. The administrator performs a recovery rehearsal in a validation environment. The restore completes, but the validation notes show that the recovery used a backup chain selected from a manually exported catalog snapshot. The live backup catalog contains a newer log entry that was not included in the exported snapshot. The operations manager wants to accept the rehearsal because the database opened successfully.

The constraint is that the administrator must validate recovery using evidence that reflects the current backup catalog. The rehearsal must prove the recoverable state without relying on stale catalog metadata.

What should the administrator do next?

- A. Accept the rehearsal because the restored database opened successfully in the validation environment.
- B. Ignore the newer log entry because the exported catalog snapshot was available when the restore began.
- C. Rerun recovery selection using the current backup catalog, restore to the required point, and validate the recovered state.
- D. Create a new manual catalog export and attach it to the completed rehearsal without repeating recovery.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Feedback:

This corrects the recovery selection dependency at the catalog evidence layer. Using the current backup catalog, restoring to the required point, and validating the result aligns catalog metadata, backup-chain selection, recovery execution, and readiness evidence.

NEW QUESTION # 43

A regional industrial services firm completes an SAP HANA installation rehearsal for a new on-premises administration environment. The database starts successfully, and SAP HANA cockpit shows it as available. During validation, the administrator notices that the installation checklist confirms database startup but does not include verification that the administrative backup destination and monitoring collection were bound to the new system. The handover owner wants to accept the system because the installation log shows no error.

The constraint is that the administrator must confirm the installed database is administratively operable before handover. The decision must include evidence for routine controls, not only the installation log and startup state.

Which action best supports accepting the installation rehearsal?

- A. Create a handover note stating that backup and monitoring controls will be verified after the first workload run.

- B. Accept the rehearsal because the installation log has no error and the database starts successfully.
- C. Restart the database and accept the handover if SAP HANA cockpit still shows the system as available.
- D. Bind and validate the backup destination and monitoring collection for the new system before accepting handover.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Feedback:

This completes the post-installation operational binding before handover. Validating backup destination and monitoring collection confirms that installation, startup, administration controls, and acceptance evidence are aligned.

NEW QUESTION # 44

A transportation company maintains an on-premises SAP HANA database for dispatch operations while newer planning data is being moved into SAP HANA Cloud. During a recovery readiness review, the administrator confirms that full backups are being created on schedule. However, a validation exercise shows that the expected recovery point for recent operational updates cannot be reached during simulation.

The backup catalog is present, and database availability remains normal. One team member proposes creating an additional full backup immediately to strengthen protection. The service manager instead wants the next action to close the recovery exposure for current operations, not only improve future coverage.

What is the best next action?

- A. Verify whether the available backup chain supports the required recovery point and correct the missing continuity before changing the backup schedule.
- B. Create a new full backup immediately because a fresh backup is the fastest way to improve recovery assurance.
- C. Restart the backup-related services so that the recovery simulation recalculates against the latest available catalog entries.
- D. Delay further action because normal database availability proves the current protection model is operationally sufficient.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Feedback:

The problem is not absence of full backups. The key artifact is that the required recovery point cannot be reached during validation. That indicates a continuity or recoverability gap in the backup chain, not simply a shortage of recent full backups. The correct step is to verify whether the current backup sequence actually supports the required point-in-time recovery target and correct the missing continuity.

NEW QUESTION # 45

A digital publishing company operates SAP HANA for subscriber activity reporting. Users report that dashboards are available, but refresh times vary sharply during the morning reporting window. SAP HANA cockpit shows no service outage, while monitoring history shows a recurring peak in expensive statement activity from a reporting workload. The database team is asked to increase system capacity immediately because the reports are business-critical.

The constraint is that the administrator must identify the execution pattern before recommending a capacity or scheduling change.

The business requires stable refresh times, but the system must remain available during investigation.

Which action best fits the observed performance evidence?

- A. Review the expensive statement pattern and workload timing, then apply a targeted scheduling or workload adjustment based on validated evidence.
- B. Increase capacity immediately because dashboard variability always indicates insufficient database resources.
- C. Restart SAP HANA during the reporting window so existing expensive statements are cleared before users refresh dashboards.
- D. Disable the reporting workload until the next maintenance window so all expensive statements are removed from the system.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Feedback:

This acts on the monitored execution evidence before changing the operating model. Reviewing expensive statement behavior and timing supports a targeted correction that links workload activity, resource use, and dashboard refresh validation.
